Conservatives Urge Anscomb Next Premier

Annual Meeting Passes Motion Assuring Leader of Full Support

(Special to The Colonist)

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25.—A new crisis for the Coalition Government appeared here today when Progressive Conservatives passed a resolution saying Hon. Herbert Anscomb should lead the Government from December until the next general election.

The resolution said Premier John Hart when he goes to Government House about December 8 to tender his resignation to the Lieutenant-Governor should name Mr. Anscomb as his successor.

Asked if the resolution was to be interpreted as a Government split, a prominent Progressive Conservative replied "What do you think?"

NOT "FEELER"

He said the resolution definitely was not a "feeler," that the party had no thought of retraction.

Here is the resolution:

"It is hereby resolved that this association do endorse the position taken by the leader with respect to the situation which has arisen by reason of the announced retirement of the Honorable John Hart and do empower him to act in the full confidence that he will do so in the best interests of British Columbia and we express our utmost loyalty to him.

"And it is hereby further resolved that this association is of the opinion that when the Honorable John Hart tenders his resignation to His Honor Lieutenant-Governor he should advise His Honor to call upon the Honorable Herbert Anscomb to form a Government in order that the future success of the Coalition, which is so vital to the citizens of British Columbia, may be assured for the term of the present partnership."

Later Mr. Anscomb reported that Coalition Government has reached the crossroads.

Given the unanimous support of the Provincial Progressive Conservative Party earlier in the day, Mr Anscomb dictated this statement covering what he told a closed session of the association:

"I outlined the history of Coalition from the start, when Mr. Maitland (the late Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C.) made it possible on behalf of the party. In that I then concurred.

"It was distinctly for the purpose of the war, not to perpetuate the life of any one party.

"During the last election period we agreed to fight together to combat Communism, but still not for the purpose of holding any particular party together.

"Now we are at the stage where the Prime Minister has retired and we have got to review the situation.

NO ADVANTAGE

"Under no circumstances would we agree to any particular advantage to either side.

"Even the standing in the Legislature as it is at the moment has changed, with three by-elections in the offing all (for seats formerly) held by Liberal Coalition members.

"With that situation we are now in the position of having about an even break in the House from the membership viewpoint.

"Our party will not under any circumstances break Coalition, as long as the principles, obligations and responsibilities of a true partnership are understood, and that we certainly expect."

Russia Loses Test Vote On Propaganda Motion

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 25 (AP).—The United Nations Political Committee tonight refused to send Russia's "warmonger" resolution to a drafting sub-committee, thus handing the Soviet Union a setback in the first test ballot on Moscow's key plan before the 1947 General Assembly.

The vote was 29 to 12 with four Latin American countries, India and Ethiopia joining the Soviet bloc in the minority.

As a result, the Soviet resolution will now come before the 57-nation committee for vote on Monday with delegates saying there is no chance of passage.

Other ballots will be taken on the Australian, French and Canadian versions which run virtually counter to the Soviet proposal.

In the last hour before the test vote, Russia took a conciliatory stand and appealed for a joint resolution acceptable to all. Previously Russia had plumped strenuously for adoption of its proposal with a series of slashing attacks on "war propaganda" in the United States and on the American press.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister, spoke nearly two hours in his last-ditch fight for the Soviet proposal, repeating many of his old charges against "reactionary" circles in the United States, Greece and Turkey.

British Minister of State Hector McNeil said that Russia is "more concerned over making political propaganda" out of the debate "than to solve a dilemma." He added "they have poisoned the atmosphere by the obviousness of their propaganda."

McNeil said "If there is to be any peace, it will not be achieved by Mr. Vishinsky's denouncing everyone who doesn't think Russia is an earthly paradise."

Chinese Reds Making Gains

NANKING, Sunday, Oct. 26 (AP).—Chinese Communist assault troops have fought into the outskirts of Hsiaofengman, whose huge hydro-electric plant serves both Southern Manchurian and the territory's capital at Changchun.

Railway Dispute Settled On Basis Board Outlined

MONTREAL, Oct. 25 (CP).—A dispute between Canada's major railways and 17 unions which threatened to tie up railway services November 3 has been settled, it was announced today.

The settlement was announced following a meeting between representatives of both sides.

It said in part that the question of increased vacations with pay for railway employees had been settled on the basis outlined by the report of the board of conciliation.

Today's announcement came after a week of negotiations which followed a union announcement that unless agreement was reached, a strike would be called on November 3. About 125,000 members of 17 brotherhoods and unions would have been involved.

The conciliation board's recommendations followed a hearing that ended last June 18. The board recommended granting of vacations on a sliding scale according to length of employment. The board's recommendation was accepted by the unions but rejected by the companies.

Originally the unions had asked for two weeks' annual vacation with pay. Under the original arrangements between the companies and the unions, many classes of employees received paid vacations the lengths of which depended on seniority.

The new agreement will standardize these vacations and will apply to all brotherhoods, including those whose members did not receive paid vacations and those who did receive holidays with pay.

Saanich Crash Injures Two

Two people were injured when the steering shaft on their car broke, causing the car to plunge into the ditch on West Saanich Road early yesterday afternoon, Saanich police reported.

Taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital were Mrs. P. Baird, Campbell River, driver of the auto, and Fred Larson, of Kansas City.

Police reported Mr. Larson was later released from hospital.

Drugs Stolen From Pharmacy

Penicillin Gift Hailed in India

NEW DELHI, Oct. 26 (CP).—A consignment of 1,300 pounds of penicillin from the Canadian Red Cross as a gift to India and Pakistan has been widely hailed in the two Dominions.

Headlines greeted its arrival as a "Canadian gesture to needy India," and as "historic . . . aid to suffering refugees."

The Deputy Speaker of the Bombay Legislative Assembly, said: "This token act will be treasured forever."

Will Protest Investigation

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 25 (AP).—A group of 18 film personages, members of "The Committee for the First Amendment," completed arrangements tonight to fly to Washington in a chartered plane tomorrow to protest the House movie Communist investigation.

Those who announced their intention of making the trip included Humphrey Bogart, Lauren Bacall, Paul Henreid, Evelyn Keyes, Richard Conte, June Havoc, John Payne, Danny Kaye, Ira Gershwin, Marsha Hunt, Sterling Hayden, Larry Adler, Jane Wyatt, and directors John Huston and Joe Cirston.

Land Searchers May Seek Lost Aircraft

PENTICTON, Oct. 25 (CP).—The possibility of land search parties being organized to comb the timber-shrouded mountainous Arrow Lakes district 70 miles east of here appeared tonight with still further reports of flares seen in the district where a missing R.C.A.F. bomber with nine persons aboard was believed to have crashed October 16.

For the second time, Mr. and Mrs. E. Donfelaar of Eagle Creek, B.C., reported sighting a flare arcing across the night sky from behind a mountain. The position of the flare was confirmed by Mrs. W. Shipmaker, who also reported seeing it, and indicated that whoever was firing them was traveling toward Eagle Creek.

R.C.A.F. headquarters in Vancouver reported that the missing plane, which disappeared on a flight between Calgary and Penticton, carried about 20 flares of different colors and said that the interval between reports of them might indicate that survivors were husbanding their shots.

Flt. Lieut. L. Murray was alerted to stand by for the first break in the weather, which has kept search planes on the ground, to fly into the suspected area accompanied by paratroops.

Solarium Home Project Revised as Too Costly

Plans for the proposed new nurses home at the Queen Alexandra Solarium "are being revised on a smaller, more inexpensive basis," Walter Luney, chairman of the board of directors, announced last night.

"When estimates were made," said Mr. Luney, "it was found that the new building would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, much more than we could possibly afford at this time.

"Accordingly, the architect has now been ordered to draw up plans for several small, individual units instead of one large one. This would provide dwellings better suited for expansion, and in the event of the Solarium obtaining larger premises would be disposed of easier."

At present, Mr. Luney continued, the nurses' home was "extremely overcrowded," and the need for better quarters was great.

"Some of the staff have to live away from the institution," he said, "and we would like them all to have accommodation right on the ground.

"Our main problem is one of finance," said Mr. Luney. "We cannot ask the public to pay for a new solarium and expect them to support it as they have for the past 22 years. We must get our funds from other sources."

Daring Drug Store Raids Climaxed by Gun Battle

BULLETINS

Village Razed

BOSTON, Oct. 25 (AP).—Flames razed most of the tiny Maine village of Dayton tonight and swept on toward the industrial city of Saco as forest fires raged relentlessly across the Northeastern States.

National Guard officers said Saco was in no immediate danger, but the city's 8,600 residents were alerted as the blaze reached within five miles of the community.

Drugs Found

Police Chief G. Stancombe, of Esquimalt, announced late last night that a considerable quantity of narcotics had been found on the person of Nicholas Clark, wounded hold-up suspect now in hospital after yesterday's drug store raids.

Holdup Suspect Makes Police Officer Hostage Then Is Brought to Earth by Bullets of Chief

CONST. GEORGE HARVEY—Abducted.

CLARENCE MORLEY—Held Up.

Two daring drug store robberies by what Victoria city police described as "armed drug addicts" yesterday, ended last night with the freeing of an abducted Esquimalt police constable and a gunfight which sent a suspect to hospital with gunshot wounds.

Suffering from bullet wounds in the abdomen and arm in St. Joseph's Hospital was a man police identified as a Nicholas Clark, of Vancouver. His condition was reported to be fair.

Police in the entire Victoria area were ordered out on patrols in search of a second unidentified man, believed to have been involved in the two robberies. Early this morning the hunt was still on.

First robbery occurred at 1.45 p.m. when two armed, masked men burst into the dispensing branch of McGill and Orme's, on the second floor of the downtown Scollard Building. They slugged William R. Clark, partner in the drug firm, ripped the phone from the wall and made off with "a small quantity of narcotics."

Dazed but not unconscious, his head and nose bleeding from the blow, Mr. Clark recovered and called city police and the R.C.M.P. The thugs made their escape on streets crowded with Saturday afternoon shoppers.

OFFICER IS CAPTIVE

About 5.40 Constable George Harvey of Esquimalt Police, in response to a call from an unidentified person who told police a prowler was in the area, pulled up in the police patrol wagon at the corner of Fraser and Lyall Streets in Esquimalt. As he got out of the car a man stepped up and held a revolver at his back.

Harvey said the gunman ordered him to get back into the car and drive to the Gorge Pharmacy, at 2920 Tillicum Road.

Clarence Morley, pharmacist on duty at the drug store, said he looked up to see the constable enter the store, his arms raised.

"The gunman was right behind him with a revolver pointed at his back," Morley stated.

Also in the store at the time were the delivery boy, Glen Berryman, and J. Taylor, the apprentice. Several customers were in the store but in another section.

"I was ordered to turn over all the stocks of drugs in the place," Morley declared, "and when I told him they were in the basement, he made us all go down in single file with our hands up to show him where the narcotics were stored."

After "cleaning out" the entire narcotic supply in the store, worth about $100, but ten times that amount on the black market, Morley said, the gunman ordered him to find an eyedropper and a bottle of water. Obtaining this, he left the store, with the police officer still at gun point.

Morley immediately got in touch with Saanich police, and all forces in the Victoria area were ordered on the alert.

CHIEF SEES CAR

Harvey reported later that he had been ordered back into the car and told to drive it out the Island Highway, and later was told to turn and return to the city, all the time threatened by the gun.

At 7.15 p.m. Esquimalt Police Chief Gilbert Stancombe accompanied by Sgt. James Smart were patrolling the Sooke area on the Island Highway near Luxton when they saw the stolen police truck proceeding toward Victoria.

Immediately giving chase, they caught up with the vehicle near the Colwood Community Hall, where the stolen patrol wagon, with Constable Harvey at the wheel, turned into a side road.

Instead of remaining with the vehicle, the man, whom police identified as Nicholas Clark, jumped and attempted to escape into the bush. After ordering the fleeing man to stop, Chief Stancombe fired a volley of shots which were answered by the suspect. Clark was brought to the ground with two of the chief's shots, one of which lodged in the stomach, the other in the arm. He was then taken to hospital.

Police said there was "no doubt" of the connection between the two robberies.

Maine Declared Disaster Area By President

BAR HARBOR, Me., Oct. 25 (AP).—The entire State of Maine was a disaster area tonight—so proclaimed by President Truman—as forest fires spread new destruction in the Northeastern States.

New outbreaks in New England came as rising daytime winds threatened the defence gains made during a calm night.

The forest fire death toll amounted from 18 to 20 in the nation and in New England property loss now stands at $27,000,000.

White Plains, N.Y., reported two fresh fires nearby as other parts of the state listed their blazes as out or under control.

The situation by states was this:

Maine—Resurging fires spread new destruction in York and Washington counties—at the opposite ends of the Maine seacoast—and state arson investigators probed firebug reports. One man was held for questioning at Biddeford.

New Hampshire—A million dollar loss was reported in the city of Rochester. Two fresh fires sprang up there today and one is still spreading.

New York—Fire fighters, bringing under control seven major woods fires, were called to two new blazes spotted in Southeastern New York State near the Kensico reservoir, north of White Plains.

Druggist Tells Of Attack

"I was alone in the dispensary, behind the counter when the door burst open and two masked men entered," said William R. Clark, 1276 Montrose Avenue, co-owner of McGill and Orme drug stores, who was on duty yesterday afternoon when the first of two drug store robberies took place in the Victoria area.

"One of them ran around the counter and struck me on the forehead and nose with a gun. I fell down, dazed, but didn't lose consciousness. The other pulled the phone wire out of the wall. Then they went in behind to where the drug supplies were kept.

"After a few seconds, both ran out and disappeared.

"They were like madmen," Mr Clark added, "and as I have been held up before, I didn't offer any resistance."

In a few minutes, he revived and, bleeding from the wound in his head, staggered to a phone in a nearby office to call city police and the R.C.M.P.

"It was impossible to describe the thugs," said Mr Clark, "as it all happened so fast. They didn't bother with the till at all, but went straight for the drug supply as if they knew the plan of the dispensary."

Conservatives Elect Pearkes

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25 (Special)—Major-General G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo, today was elected president of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative Association, succeeding W. A. Jones of Vancouver.

Gordon A. Cameron and Waldo Skillings, Victoria, were named among the association's vice-presidents, others of whom are John B. Lawson, Vancouver; Lyle Jestley, Vancouver, and Mrs. Hilda F. Swindells, Vancouver.

W. W. Cooper was elected secretary and George F. Cameron, treasurer.

Keen Interest In U.S. Session

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP).—Government officials plan to watch with more than customary interest the actions of United States legislators at next month's special session of Congress which will be asked to vote $642,000,000 in stop-gap aid for France and Italy.

If Congress agrees to vote the money then some of it may find its way to Canada and help relieve this country's shortage of United States dollars.

Observers here believe that if $357,000,000 is voted to assist France and $285,000,000 to assist Italy Congress will not insist that the money be spent on the purchase of goods in the United States. Such a stipulation, they say, would lead to a reduction of supplies in the United States and would tend to increase the inflation which President Truman has asked Congress to combat.

Labor Party To Face Test

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AP).—Britain's Labor Government faces a new test of strength next week in municipal elections which will be held against a background of economic difficulties.

The vote will be for new borough councilmen, but both Laborites and Conservatives say the real issue will be national—how the people feel about their Labor leadership.

Balloting comes at a time of new cuts in the already skimpy food rations, of a Government statement that the nation must scale down its critically needed housing program, or a dollar-saving ban on U.S. tobacco imports, and of generally deepening "austerity."

Both parties gave close attention to recent municipal elections in France and Norway, both of which showed trends toward the right.

Labor leaders here privately acknowledged they may take some losses. They said they doubted, however, whether their opponents could make inroads into "the hard core" of Labor voters, numbering 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 who are supposed to be steadfast party supporters.

Conservative party sources said they expected big gains.

Howe Expected to Head Canadian Five-Year Plan

By Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Parliamentary sources reported tonight that the Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Reconstruction and Supply, which department is gradually folding up, is to become an economic czar in a five-year plan intended to increase the nation's industrial productivity.

His actual title will be Minister of Natural Resources, which will be the counterpart in Canada of Sir Stafford Cripps' post in the United Kingdom. The Cabinet has held several meetings this week on the new plans.

Alex Skelton, top research chief of the Bank of Canada, is said to have prepared a "master plan" of economic development. This was done through the resources of the bank and the personnel remaining in the Department of Reconstruction.

The intention of the Skelton-Howe plan is to process goods in Canada, rather than ship raw products out and import them as finished products. Currently many Canadian resources are shipped raw to the United States and come back as costly finished goods.

The overall program will be presented under the guise of trade expansion rather than trade restriction.

In addition to reducing imports of goods processed from Canadian raw materials the program will seek to promote greater exports of Canadian manufactured goods and certain raw materials.

May Keep Road Open All Year

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP).—The State Department informed Senator Magnuson (D., Wash.) today that it hopes to be able to work out a plan for keeping the Haines cut-off on the Alaska Highway open througout the year.

Dog-Fighting Airplane Forces Another to Crash

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 25 (AP).—An unidentified pilot whipped his light plane against two others in a simulated attack today and forced one to crash into an 11,000-volt power line.

Sgt. Tom McMillin, who soloed only a few days ago, told Shirley Field authorities he was making practice turns near Forbing, La., today when the strange plane dove straight at him. The sergeant said the plane was a Cub and that the attack took place at 800 feet.

Sgt. McMillin, who is based at Barksdale Field, said he made a fast turn but the second plane followed and continued to do so on two more turns. His evasive action, said the sergeant, brought him so close to the ground that on the third run by the unidentified plane he pulled into the wires.

When the plane crashed, McMillin escaped with only a blow on the head.

Flyers at Shirley Field, a commercial base, said a strange plane also made combat runs at another light plane there during the morning.

Halt Oil Drilling At 11,002 Feet

SEATTLE, Oct. 25 (AP).—After drilling the deepest well ever put down in Washington, the Standard Oil Company announced today it was abandoning drilling operations at its exploratory well at Lake Stickney, ten miles southeast of Everett, at a depth of 11,002 feet.

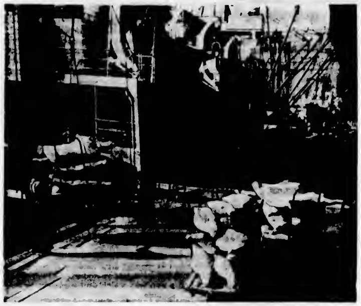
Bundles of Bacon for Britain



Despite setback caused by recent Canadian packinghouse workers' strike this shipment of bacon going into holds of cargo liner Beavercove in Montreal is bound for tables of Britons. However, British bacon ration remains at one ounce per person per week as shortage is so acute that during week Sir Stafford Cripps announced there would be new distribution of bacon for meat-hungry British, so that reserve could be amassed.

Will Attempt To Defeat Attlee Party

LONDON, Oct 25 (AP).—Winston Churchill will make his fourth attempt on Tuesday to overthrow the Labor Government by parliamentary action.

He will argue the Conservative motion accusing the Government of lacking "the national leadership, the administrative competence, or the measures necessary to meet the economic crisis."

Approval of this amendment to the "Speech from the Throne" by King George would amount to a vote of no confidence, and force Premier Attlee's Government to resign. In view of the overwhelming Labor majority there was little likelihood this would happen.

Churchill has tried to overthrow the Labor Government three times by parliamentary action since it came into power in July, 1945 On November 27, 1945, a Churchill-sponsored vote of censure on reconversion lost 381 to 187. On March 12, 1947, he was refused 374 to 188 a vote of no confidence on the Government's economic white paper

Last August 8 he sought to table the Crisis Bill in a move that would have amounted to a vote of censure He met defeat 251 to 146.

Urges Speed-Up In Sales to Aid Aged Men's Home

A request for speedier action in disposing of certain lots forming part of the property of the Aged Men's Home will be made by Alderman Mrs Margaret D Christie, chairman of the city social welfare committee, it was announced following a recent meeting of the committee

Proceeds from the sale of the lots will be used for the erection of an infirmary for the residents of the home, she said.

J Biothard, superintendent of the home, reported to the committee that residents of the home had spent 772 days in hospital during the past nine months. He said that an infirmary on the home grounds would reduce materially the cost of hospitalization and would add considerably to the comfort of the men.

C. A. Hemenway Dies in Honolulu

Charles A Hemenway, known to many Victorians, passed away at his home in Honolulu, Hawaii, October 15, it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Hemenway, with the exception of the war years, visited this city each Summer for many years past. He was here with his wife this year for three months at the Empress Hotel. In Hawaii he was associated with civic life and educational projects For the past 30 years he had served on the board of regents of the University of Hawaii He was 72 years old

Planning B.C. Products Fair

Members of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce are now working on plans for their second annual British Columbia Products Fair March 18, 19 and 20 have been suggested as tentative dates for the affair.

Organization of the event will be under the direction of a special committee headed by chairman Stanley "Stan" Roberts Last year's fair was directed by a committee headed by Percy Frampton.

The British Columbia Products Fair of the Junior Chamber last year was held at the Bay Street Armory, and was attended by many thousand Victorians and visitors. Object of the events, it is explained, is to show the many and varied products and manufactured goods of this province, and to point out possibility for additional industrial enterprises in British Columbia.

Community Centre Announces Plans

The Esquimalt Community Centre, organized under the sponsorship of the Community Welfare Council, will be supported financially by the Community Chest during 1948, it was announced by Mrs. Edith Brindley, community counsellor.

Allocation for the Community Welfare Council is $6,965, and this will also aid the James Bay Community Centre.

Activities at the Esquimalt Centre, 1123 Colville Road, said Mrs. Brindley, are scheduled to start in the near future as soon as the necessary committees can be organized and recreational equipment obtained.

Sports, recreation and informal education activities are being planned at the centre for the Winter month for all age groups, Mrs Brindley declared in a circular letter which she has sent out to all Esquimalt residents.

Those interested in assisting in organizational work are asked to contact her. Also books, magazines, games, records, musical instruments, and sports equipment are urgently needed.

Y.P.U. Delegates Attend Meetings

Twenty-five delegates of the Vancouver Island Presbytery Y.P.U took a leading part in the British Columbia Conference Y.P.U. convention in Chalmers United Church, Vancouver.

Six Island members were elected to the B.C. executive: Jack Spiller, vice-president; Miss Muriel Lee, recording secretary; Miss Ella Marr, registrar; Miss Isabel Richardson, Christian Missions convener; Doug Plum, Christian Citizenship convener; Miss Marge Thomson, recreation convener

Outline of the convention on the first day was given by Jack Spiller who, with Miss Marr, led several discussion groups on the second day. Mr. Spiller presided at the evening service Sunday night at church.

Donations Aid Mayor's Fund

Donations totaling more than $1,000 have been received by Mayor Percy E George from two Island organizations, one in Duncan and the other in Victoria, for the Mayor's Fund, Parcels for Britain.

Women's Auxiliary, Branch No. 53, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., Duncan, sent a cheque for $760 and a contribution of $250 was received from Victoria Unit No. 12, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, Mayor George reported.

Parcels forwarded with the funds sent from Duncan will carry cards and labels indicating their origin, it was stated.

Mayor George expressed appreciation of the generous gifts and stated that he felt the latest donations, which are two of many other outstanding contributions, were "actuated by a sense of esteem and appreciation for the hospitality of Britain during the war."

Public Kept in Dark on Prices, Housing a Fiasco, Says Bracken

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25 (CP).—John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, said here today that the fate of British Columbia's Coalition Government is "purely a provincial affair in which I will take no part."

He attended the opening session of the annual meeting of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative Association, and early next week will start a speaking tour of the province.

Mr. Bracken said he felt sure "the people of British Columbia will determine it in a way that meets their best interests."

Discussing rumors of a Fall session of Federal Parliament, he said such a session was necessary to deal with rising prices.

"The time is already past due when the matter should be dealt with. If the Government is not going to take action on its own accord, an early session should be held." He charged the Liberal Government "is not facing or solving any of Canada's problems.

The Federal Government had allowed shortages to continue and removed price ceilings while shortages persisted, he said.

"The public has been kept in the dark as to the real situation and the Government has done nothing to meet the impending crisis The situation is getting worse daily."

Housing was "a complete fiasco," Mr. Bracken declared. "The Government has at last found the cause for its failure. I read that Mr. Howe says it is the loggers and lumbermen of B.C. who are to blame.

"I was under the impression they had carried out Mr Howe's own precise lumber regulations Housing is the Government's worst failure and I think they could find reason for it in Ottawa."

An answer to Canada's problems is "less taxes, lowering of the cost of Government, increased production and better balanced economy." he said.

"We can produce more than any Communist or semi-Communist Government with free enterprise."

Mr. Bracken said Reconstruction Minister Howe had used the forest industry of B.C. as "the goat" to cover up the Government's own errors in the distribution of lumber for housing in Canada.

He accused the Federal Government of "bungling" the de-control of wartime prices and of mishandling financial problems involved in the United States dollar crisis

Churchmen's Club Elects Officers

Missing Seaman Acclaimed Hero

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25 (AP).—Seaman James H Schlerth, 24, of Portland, Ore., the only man missing in the Thursday midnight collision of a freighter and a tanker off Point Sur, was acclaimed today as a hero who prevented a more serious disaster by sounding a warning bell.

Capt. Svend Nilsen of Long Beach, Calif., skipper of the Richfield oil tanker Sparrows Point, said Schlerth warned of the impending crash before he was knocked from his lookout post in the bow

The signal reached the bridge in time for the engines to be reversed The tanker escaped with a hole in her starboard bow

6,000 Canadian Seamen May Be Nearing Tie-Up

VANCOUVER, Oct 25 (CP).—Some 6,000 members of the Canadian Seamen's Union and about 150 deepsea vessels, including 110 in Eastern Canada and the Maritimes, today appeared headed for a threatened tie-up of Canada's Atlantic and Pacific ports following an announcement yesterday by union officials that a strike vote would be taken "within a matter of days"

Announcement that the strike vote would be taken came from Harry Davis, C.S.U. president, following "almost unanimous" approval for strike action at "stop work" meetings held at Canadian ports yesterday.

Representatives of the Shipping Federation, negotiating for Eastern Canada and Maritime ship owners, and the British Columbia Deepsea Owners' Association met here with Mr. Davis, who said the union's national negotiating committee had been voted authorization by deepsea members in Vancouver, Montreal, Saint John and Halifax to call a general strike vote and, if necessary, issue the strike call.

Earlier yesterday, ships' crews in the four ports, issued with a "Stop work" order by the union, walked off their ships for an emergency meeting, while ships at sea were informed by wireless of the situation.

Some 300 merchant seamen at Vancouver, first port to report, voted "unanimously" to take a strike vote, date of which will be fixed by the executive

T. G. (Terry) McManus, national secretary of the union, said "ships at sea have been informed . . and while they will not stop work they, too, will meet to decide on action"

Anglicans Mark Laymen's Sunday

All Anglican churches on Vancouver Island will observe Laymen's Sunday today. The clergy asks all people, irrespective of creed, to exercise practical fellowship with the people of Britain.

In all churches there will be an envelope collection for the Mayor's Food for Britain Fund. It is a supplementary collection and has the sanction and approval of Bishop Sexton.

Childish Pranks, Mystic Seances Afford Strange Hallowe'en Blend

Greater Victoria children are already thinking up "fiendish ideas" for next Friday night Hallowe'en, when they will launch their annual attack on the unfortunate citizenry.

However, police are usually equal to the occasion and keep the situation pretty well in hand. Pranksters don't cause too much trouble, according to police, who say as long as things are kept "within reason" no one will suffer.

Hallowe'en, a day associated with supernatural occurrences, will find ghost hunters sitting in mystic seance rooms and seeking positive contact with the spirit of Houdini, the celebrated magician who died on Hallowe'en 21 years ago, according to Associated Press dispatches from New York.

Alive, Houdini was an almost legendary character who could escape from all known shackles, bars and restraints. Because he was known to have made a pact to return if he could after he died, plus the coincidence of the date of his death, his ghost on that days becomes the most-sought-after spirit manifestation.

This non-appearing ghost was disappointed 13 magicians in Detroit last year, previously failed to appear at seances held every year until 1936 by Houdini's wife. After that year's failure, Mrs. Houdini abandoned efforts to communicate with him.

"Ten years is long enough to wait for any man," she said.

But another group, the spiritualists, contend that Houdini's spirit definitely did return, as well as many others such as those of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Sir Oliver Lodge. Spiritualists believe in immediate survival and communication with the dead under the right conditions. The right conditions include having the right medium to receive messages from the spirit world.

Elderly People Urged to Use Care Walking

Chief J. A. McLellan has issued a warning to elderly people of the risk they run in violating the traffic regulations by such practices as jaywalking, stepping off the curb without looking both ways, crossing against the red light, etc.

"Of ten fatal traffic accidents this year, seven have been pedestrians, of whom four were elderly people," said the chief. "This high percentage is partly due, no doubt, to the fact that many old people have never driven an automobile and therefore cannot estimate speed or distance.

"I ask you who are reading this warning, if you have elderly relatives or friends, to make a point of talking over with them the matter of pedestrian safety. The important thing is to make them realize that the moment they step off the sidewalk into the road they are entering a zone of traffic which is altogether faster, larger and more powerful than anything they experienced in their youth. For this reason they must learn the traffic rules, and, for their own safety, obey them at all times.

"Year in and year out we are urging the motorist to keep a sharp look-out for elderly pedestrians and children. This warning cannot be repeated too often."

To Reopen School

Trustees of Sooke Rural School District No. 62 announced last night that they hope to reopen Belmont High School next Tuesday or Wednesday. The school was closed last Monday pending arrival of a new heating plant from Toronto.

Sophomores Outnumber Other Classes at U.B.C.

Sophomores — second-year arts students — outnumber all other groups on the University of B.C. campus this year, a tabulated registration statement revealed to the senate of the university this week. Total registration for the year is 9,256, compared with 8,986 for 1946, the statement showed.

First and second years in arts showed a drop in registration over 1946, but the total for the faculty rose from 5,041 last year to 5,052 today.

Total registered in applied science and nursing courses also shows a rise from the 1946 total of 2,163 to a present enrolment of 2,250.

A slight drop in enrolment was registered by the faculty of agriculture, with 536 registered this year against 543 in 1946.

Enrolment in the faculty of law has nearly doubled. There were 239 registered last year, but 409 are enrolled today.

All totals include direct reading and extra-sessional courses as well as graduate students.

Comparison percentages shown in the report indicate men outnumber women 7,386 to 1,870 this year. There are 4,338 veterans registered under Department of Veterans' Affairs benefits, and 4,917 non-veteran students.

In 1946, men outnumbered women 7,145 to 1,841; veterans outnumbered non-veterans 4,800 to 4,186.

No Move Seen To Settle Transit Strike

The paralyzing transit strike, which has forced residents of Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster to "take to the road" has entered its second week without a sign of settlement.

The 2,800 operators in the three centres have been off the job, seeking to enforce the British Columbia Electric Railway Company to boost their pay 20-cents-an-hour and reduce the work week to 40 hours.

No moves were in sight to end the strike. There had been no secret meetings, no neutral arbitrator to conciliate the disputants, and civic authorities stood by awaiting developments.

The B.C. Electric suggested appointment of an arbitration board to end the walkout. It received a cold reception from officials of the Street Railwaymen's Union (A.F.L.)

"We've been through seven months of that already," said a union spokesman. "The men won't accept another board of any kind."

Labor Minister Gordon S. Wismer has also offered his services, but he has not been asked to act.

Emergency transportation services—car pools, taxis, and trucks—operated efficiently during the week, and few of the 200,000 in the three cities dependent on street car and bus services, suffered hardship.

It was a luxury ride for many who traveled to offices and industrial plants by automobile, some in big sedans, and others by taxis.

Downtown night life took a beating. Business dropped off in theatres and there was a sharp decline in day-time retail trade.

The winners so far have been service stations, supplying extra gas to the thousands of cars, and providing urgent repair work to keep all available vehicles on the road.

A. E. Grauer, president of the B.C. Electric, early in the strike announced he was ready to accede to union demands "if the public accepts" a straight 10 cent fare. The present fare is seven cents.

The union, seeking a pay boost of 20-cents-an-hour retroactive to March 1, 1947, rejected offers of a 10-cent wage hike.

Would Preserve Ancient Tram For Historical Link With City

A request that the B.C. Electric Railway Company be asked to preserve a street car of ancient vintage for its historical significance in Victoria has been received by Mayor Percy E. George from the Native Sons of Canada, Victoria Assembly No. 1.

The letter, signed by Robert D. McLachlan, assembly secretary, stressed that Victoria "was the first city west of the Mississippi, second city in Canada and third in North America to use an electric transit system."

"To keep this historical fact before our citizens and visitors," said the letter, "such a trolley should be placed to a suitable situation where its significance in history can be properly displayed."

The request stated that other cities such as Winnipeg and San Francisco preserved historical items, and that Victoria should follow their example.

How Would You Like to Live in the "Good Old Days"?

★ Back in grandfather's time, during the final quarter of the last century, things were quite different. There were no movies, no airplanes, no automobiles, few bathrooms, practically no efficient electrical appliances. If you contracted diabetes or pernicious anemia, your days were numbered. Your blood just "changed to sugar" in the former, "to water" in the latter.

There was little protection against virulent epidemics. Smallpox vaccine was the only biological on the market. When diphtheria or typhoid ravaged a community, there was nothing to do but wait it out in hope and dread.

Yes, a return to the "good old days" would mean, among other things, the sacrifice of the major portion of the contribution of medicine and pharmacy to your health and well-being.

Coalition Contenders

The "routine" meeting of the Progressive Conservative executive of British Columbia held at Vancouver yesterday turned out to have significant and alarming results. By resolution the executive urged that Hon. Herbert Anscomb be chosen to succeed Premier Hart when the latter resigns. This seemed in direct reply to the Liberals, who have said they will seek the premiership for their new provincial leader when he is chosen. So there will be two contenders in the field for the premiership, and unless the Coalition Caucus acts to resolve this difficulty, the Coalition itself may fall between two stools. No protestations of Coalition loyalty, however fervent, would make up for that demise if it were to develop. The Socialists would win at the polls.

The wording of the Progressive Conservative resolution made it clear beyond question that it has endorsed the Anscomb-for-premier drive unreservedly. The first paragraph of the resolution endorses the stand taken by Mr. Anscomb in the matter to date, and gives him carte blanche to act for the Progressive Conservative Party in all subsequent negotiations. The second part of the resolution comes straight out with the claim, and asks Premier Hart to suggest Mr. Anscomb as his successor in the premiership when he goes to Government House in December to tender his resignation from office.

A concurrent statement issued by Mr. Anscomb, as Progressive Conservative leader, recites the history of the Coalition, insists that conditions have changed now, emphasizes an even distribution of Conservative and Liberal support in the Legislature, carefully avoids express reference to the premiership, and ends with a declaration of loyalty to the Coalition. Judged in the light of the executive's resolution naming himself as Mr. Hart's successor, with power to make whatever terms he chooses on behalf of the party, Mr. Anscomb's statement is far more equivocal than clear.

In short, the situation has been further confused. If it comes to an open conflict between Liberals and Conservatives as to which party will contribute Mr. Hart's successor, the Coalition could collapse. It is from that possibility that the Coalition Caucus directly, and both parties together, must rescue this province without fail.

Farcical

One has waited in vain for any explanation which might enlighten the public as to the extraordinary recommendation laid before the City Police Commission at its mid-week meeting—that a court stenographer without police training be made second in command of the Victoria Police Force. The picture of such an official—as a sort of gold-lace office boy who would run between the Chief of Police and the force on minor errands—is farcical in the extreme. That it could be suggested seriously by the Chief of Police and endorsed by two-thirds of the Police Commission throws grave doubt on the administration of police affairs in Victoria. If the Police Force has come down to that it is clearly in need of an immediate reorganization, from the Chief of Police down.

The treatment of the recommendation before the Commission was reminiscent of the Hatter's Tea Party, without the refreshments. The recommendation was declared as sacrosanct and not to be questioned. One Commissioner who did object was told that he was obstructing, and likened to the veto-wielders before the United Nations. We trust that this city has not reached the place where it must do what any of its paid officials say unquestioned, where elected men can be silenced for expressing their own convictions. The whole discussion was farcical, and served only to emphasize the ridiculous nature of the recommendation itself.

As the public well knows, the second in command of a metropolitan police force should be a man with long and experienced police training. He must have a keen knowledge of every man serving under him, and command their respect and obedience inherently. If a senior officer who has grown up in the force is not available, then the position should be held open until some officer with the proper qualifications can be found. The suggestion that a court stenographer (and a first-class one) can suddenly become the second ranking officer in the force and "sent to a school to secure police training" simply does not make sense. Such a move would destroy discipline and initiative in the police body at one stroke.

There are more serious consequences to this latest demonstration of inertia and lack of vision in civic affairs. The proceedings suggest grave dislocation not only in the administration of police matters, but also in some elected civic bodies as well. What confidence can the ratepayers feel when time after time important elements of their business are handled in any such a fashion? A condition of frustration and impotence is being built up, while the real problems facing the community stand neglected. It has become more than a question of a new deputy chief of police, or a new police chief, or even of a new police commission. The public wants a far more able type of civic management throughout, and if it cannot find it under the elective system it may turn one day to the city-manager form of administration.

Wages of Selfishness

Veterans returning from two world conflicts have lived to discover that the unselfish sacrifice which they made in their own lives was not much in evidence on the home front. The disillusionment of a generation ago is being repeated today, and magnified by the insistent pressure of the times. Many an individual who did not lift a hand in freedom's battle is claiming the fruits of victory. Those who made no sacrifice are saying that they should be served first. Some grown rich in war have forgotten the origin of that affluence and its human obligations. There is little enough to compare with the unselfish decision these veterans made in their own lives, and their example bids fair to be forgotten.

It is a truism that the fighting man is overlooked when the battle is ended. To be the hero of a nation one day and a forgotten man the next is the lot of all too many who bore arms for Canada in the field. In a sense, the veteran expected that, and in some cases watched it happen before. What disturbs him is that the unselfish existence which he learned to live is all too little recognized or followed by the very people he went forth to fight for and to guard. He sees patriotism turned to lip-service in the mouths of crafty schemers. He watches the Golden Calf, raised mountains high, worshipped with adulation. He finds nowhere a sacrifice the equal of his own. Bitterness and disillusionment result when such a state of selfishness becomes national and ingrained.

Yet there are wages to selfishness, and they are always paid. Discontent is the abiding portion of those who seek only their own good in this world. The insatiate desire for more brings with it envy, the half-brother of greed. The selfish individual is neither satisfied with what he has, nor content to see what others may have more than himself. His imagined wants are as a measure than can never be filled, so discontent possesses him. It was not so that men were taught to live. In the Scriptures, at 2 Cor: 15, there was written this: "He died for all, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto Him which died for them, and rose again."

On the Wrong Foot

It is the duty of the City of Victoria to keep its parking meters in working order, and in any court dispute to prove that they are so. It is not good enough to tell the motoring public that if it finds a meter out of order it should stop then and there, (1) "to find a policeman", (2) "to notify the city engineer's office", or (3) "police headquarters." The public can hardly be expected to stop for that, it has its own business to attend to. When it comes to infractions of the parking meter by-law in the city courts, the prosecution will remain under the necessity of proving that the meters were in working order, and that the infraction was on the part of the motorist and not that of the meter. The ordinary rules of evidence demand that. If there is doubt that a proportion of the installed meters are not working, the city should inspect them all and keep them properly serviced. That is not the public's obligation, and it never will be. The shoe is on the other foot.

Harlequinade

Late October is the time of the year on the Pacific Coast when the trees are in harlequinade. A green leaf and a gold wave side by side on the same tree. Sometimes the colors may be gold and scarlet, green and russet, and every imaginable shade in between. The effect is vividly bright and gay. Deciduous species appear as if they were in carnival, parading their brightened colors in a grand farewell to this year's foliage. Stop under any shade tree these days, and look up. Harlequins are dancing in brilliant array, forming, dissolving, joining forces and parting company, like members of the chorus in a whirling ballet. Soon most of the leaves will be down, leaving the sturdy exceptions. The hardy arbutus and the copper beach will hold their foliage for a long while after other species stand bare before the cold North wind.

Night

Mysterious night, when our first parent knew Thee from report divine, and heard thy name,
Did he not tremble for this lovely frame
This glorious canopy of light and blue?
Yet, 'neath a curtain of translucent dew,
Bathed in the rays of the great setting flame,
Hesperus with the host of heaven came,
And-lo! creation widened in man's view.
Who could have thought such darkness lay concealed
Within thy beams, O sun! or who could find,
Whilst flower and leaf and insect stood revealed,
That to such countless orbs thou mad'st us blind!
Why do we then shun Death with anxious strife?
If Light can thus deceive, wherefore not Life?

The Third Column

By TOM TAYLOR

BARRING DOBBIN

The Peterborough Examiner has been waxing eloquent in defence of the horse, that patient friend of man in peace and war. It seems that the Ottawa Board of Control is thinking of taxing horses, or rather the owners, and of barring them from certain city streets. Evidently The Examiner fears the notion may spread all across Ontario.

You don't have to be the kind of person who offers a kingdom for a horse to hope that Victoria councillors won't be afflicted with the same idea. It would be a sad day if one never saw a horse. Cars and trucks have pushed old Dobbin well into the background, but there are still plenty of jobs this faithful animal is better at than a motor vehicle.

Down East they have more evidence of this than here, of course, which is probably what makes The Examiner rush into the argument. It's the horse, not the station wagon, that sees these frozen communities through their normal Winters. Dobbin can take several feet of snow in his stride while the car engine is spluttering to a standstill. It's true enough that mechanical bread and milk wagons are invading this traditional horse-drawn field in greater number but the truck has not yet been produced that can memorize a milk route.

THE HORSE-LAUGH

Ottawa objections, apparently are based on the belief that a street not used by horses won't have to be swept, which the Peterborough paper terms a quaint idea. It is, too, when you think of the litter human beings cast upon the pavements.

If horses could speak our language they'd have room for apt rejoinder. Perhaps they would regret ever lending themselves for the workaday purposes of transport and tillage, and had they balked at the beginning as only a horse can balk man's progress might have been held up considerably. It is only 150 years since the horse came to be yoked so closely to the husbandry of mankind.

Before that and for many long generations he was wild or merely a vehicle of travel and war. He was more of a pet then, hence his name Dobbin. This was a variation of Robin, and it was widely used in Merrie England, gradually becoming a nickname for the entire equine species.

Granted the equivalent of the memory that enables man to hand down history to his offspring—and who knows what a mare says to her colt—the horse would have some queer thoughts could he note what Ottawa is after. And when he thought of the frozen streets of that city in Winter, without his presence he could be excused if he indulged in a good hearty horse-laugh.

HOT DOGS

Hot dogs are a favorite with many Victorians, especially the younger folk, even if you don't run across them with the same facility as you do at, say, English Bay. It is an American dish, as everyone knows, although like some other exportations it has become part of the Canadian scene also. And that succulent bun is not to be despised. Certainly not if sales mean anything.

Americans, according to The Chicago Daily News, eat 416,000,000 pounds of hot dogs a year. That is a lot of hot dog, indicating it has become a staple fare for many people and not just the accompaniment to a picnic or a baseball game.

It seems that this great culinary achievement came into being at the Polo Grounds in New York in 1900. A gentleman by name of Harry Mosely Stevens had a peanut and candy concession, and one day he had the brilliant idea of adding a new touch—a wiener in a bun with mustard and pickle. For him, anyway, it was brilliant.

POTENT SYMBOL

Americans had eaten wieners in buns before but never with mustard and pickle. It was this simple addition that multiplied the fortune of Mr. Stevens.

From a $2 concession he built up a million-dollar business by installing stands in the nation's major league ball parks and race tracks. Came 1947 and the hot dog is a potent symbol of America at work and play.

As you would think hot dog preferences vary across the broad spaces of the United States. Easterners like theirs lightly spiced and order them "hold everything." Westerners, being more of the he-man type, demand more tang and layers of onion, pickle and mustard—"the works," in fact.

The next time this column is near a hot dog stand it must listen carefully to see how Victorians order their hot dogs.

The betting, it would guess, would be about fifty-fifty, since this community is both genteel and rough diamond in about equal proportion.

The Chicago paper, unfortunately, doesn't say how a hot dog came to be known as a "hot dog." It would be interesting to find that out.

Calls for Turn Farther Left

DUNDEE, Oct. 25 (AP) — War Minister Shinwell declared today that Britain, now ruled by a Labor Government, must turn still farther Left to win the struggle for economic recovery.

"Those people who think that the country is again turning to the Right are mistaken," he told the annual conference of the Scottish Labor Party national executive.

Australian Views Halsey's Private War

From The Australian News Letter

Admiral Halsey's confession that the British Task Force in the Pacific was "sold short" in the final months of the war against Japan, drew into reminiscence Anthony Whitelock, Sydney Morning Herald correspondent, who was there.

None knows it better than the air crew of the Task Force, he says, and the revelations are surprising only as they reveal the candour of the admiral who was once going to ride the Emperor's white horse through Tokio.

To most people of the world, 1945 was the year of the atom bomb as well as of victory. To the United States Navy and the Royal Navy the bombs must have been a bitter blow. It was not merely that they threatened to end a great naval occasion and era. It was that they completely overwhelmed in public interest the crippling damage that the Allied carrier planes from the Third Fleet had done in Japan itself.

Britain has never received credit for her share in this Allied attack on the Japanese homeland, which in all factors except the psychological, contributed more to the victory than the destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki did.

Remember that the British successes in Japan were achieved in spite of obstruction by the Americans and, according to the air crews, by the "battleship wallahs" and die-hards at the Admiralty; and, of course, the Japanese were not helping any.

In about ten operational days during the bad weather of the "plum rains," the British 33,000-ton carriers Indefatigable, Formidable, Implacable, and Victorious put out of action some 254 Japanese planes, sank 86 vessels, including destroyers and 30 freighters, and damaged 210 others, in sorties over Japan itself, and dropped more than 500 tons of bombs on Japanese soil or shipping.

Indefatigable heads the list because she stayed on with the Third Fleet after the atom bombs were dropped, and had two days' operations on her own while the other British carriers went back to replenish. In the hour that the Japanese were telling the world of their surrender, Seafire fighters from Indefatigable shot down a dozen Zeke fighters over Tokio Bay.

All this was done in the face of odds which stimulated rather than dismayed the magnificent young pilots, observers, and air gunners of the Fleet Air Arm. Being commanded by admirals and captains who had never flown against the enemy was one handicap to morale and team work. Having out-of-date Seafire fighters, years behind R A F fighters in performance, and obsolescent dive-bombers, such as the Avenger, was another.

But as the Americans knew, the thing that most hampered the British effort was the allocation of targets. On July 24, 1945, the Japanese had their greatest naval losses. American carrier planes struck at the Inland Sea base of Kure and damaged 258,000 tons of fighting shipping and nearly 60,000 tons of merchant shipping. Six weeks later, I saw some of the damage—three battleships upended or beached, and the wreckage of carriers, cruisers, and destroyers littering the harbor and inlets.

It was the knockout blow to the Japanese Navy, but there were still plenty of targets left untouched at Kure. Admiral Halsey had, however, directed the 250 British planes to the Osaka end of the Inland Sea.

I spent several hours that fine, sunny, Summer day of July 24, flying round the British target area in a dive-bomber. From the American point of view, it was an excellent target—for the British. There was only one Japanese warship there—an escort carrier tucked away in a little bay and, apparently, abandoned. We bombed and damaged that. The best of the day's bag were five small cargo ships and five junks sunk.

Much the same thing went on during the other strike days. The British fighters and bombers wrecked hard at their "unimportant objectives," as Admiral Halsey now describes them, and only once or twice saw American planes.

Lacking worthwhile targets, anything of military value to Japan became a mark for British cannon or bombs. One young red-faced pilot proudly painted a soldier on a bicycle beside the other symbols of success on his Seafire.

It was a frustrating thing to know that the Americans were keeping the rich pickings for themselves, but the British air crews, who included dozens of New Zealanders, went about the job like good soldiers, doing the best they could and wondering a bit why they were rarely given really good targets.

Letters to the Editor

No letter to the editor will be inserted except over the proper signature and address of the writer. This rule admits of no exception. No letter should exceed 300 words in length. Unsolicited correspondence cannot be returned.

POLICE COMMISSION

Sir,—May I support the justifiable stand taken by Commissioner Gadsden in not giving way to the unconfirmed recommendation of the chief of police, in selecting a new deputy police chief.

According to Chief McLellan, it is said there is no other person suitable as a deputy chief. Surely such a statement is most unjust, and tends to lower the morale and ambitions of other conscientious members of the police force.

The mayor is also in error by stating a police chief does not require previous experience in lines of police administration. A well qualified police chief should be acquainted with all phases of police work, in order affectually to discharge these duties, as experience is the best teacher.

Far more harmony, and a better spirit of ambition would be created if all individuals were given an equitable chance of having their names placed before the commissioners, if they sought a change or promotion.

Further, a more practicable decision would be reached if a written or oral examination was held, open to all aspirants: length of satisfactory service should carry some weight, and the examination should be written, or oral, regarding the candidates knowledge of such matters as investigation, Criminal Code of Canada, city by-laws, Motor Vehicle Act, Liquor Act, Indian Act, and general court procedure.

JAMES FOYER.

TRANSPARENT BALLOT?

Sir,—Re the liquor plebiscite taken in this community today: It is suggested to the Provincial Secretary or Attorney-General's Department or to whatever department the handling of such matters belong that in any future writ for the holding of such a poll the ballot paper be such that the electorate be given the right and privilege of a really secret ballot.

The poll taken today could not in the wildest imagination be called secret for the faintest mark was easily discernible. The proper ballot is supposedly so folded that any mark is not discernible. This affair was no secret vote. It was open to any and all eyes to know who voted how or why. The result could be known exactly any hour of the poll by anyone interested.

Minister to Mainland—Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, and Hon A. H. Manson, Attorney-General, left yesterday for Vancouver, where they were speakers at the annual meeting of the Vancouver City Liberal Association last night. They will be back in the city today.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

(From The Daily Colonist of October 26, 1897)

The City—Owing to the necessity for more accommodation once again forcibly presenting itself, Mr. Stephen Jones, proprietor of the Dominion Hotel, has decided to have a large addition built to the structure. This will be three stories high, with a front of 33 feet and a depth of 130 feet. It will be in keeping with the general character of the present building, and will make the Dominion one of the largest hotels in the Province, for with the addition it will contain 106 rooms for guests. Tenders have been called.

Trade Lost—By the loss of San Juan Island, our merchants will part with a very large customer. As all foreign goods have entered San Juan Island duty free since 1859, the residents generally drew supplies from Victoria.

Observation Car

By G.B.

While the Keating Squire was gazing over his rolling acres and making plans for next year's crops, a venerable automobile groaned to a stop outside the farmhouse. The driver lifted the hood and looked at the grimy engine with the vain hope that he could discover what had made it stop. Next he unscrewed the gasoline tank cap and poked a twig through the orifice. It came out wet for about two inches of its length, showing there was sufficient fuel. Then he pulled out the oil level rod. It disclosed the crankcase was half full. Finally the squire decided to take a hand in the situation. "I owned one of those cars years ago, and there are a few things I can tell you about it," he commenced. "Then please don't. My wife is in the back seat," the motorist retorted . . . "It says in this article that long hair is supposed to make a man look intelligent," Bill, the Broad Street barber, remarked to the boss during a lull in business. "Not if a man's wife finds it on his coat," the boss snickered . . . According to an old Chinese story, an Oriental about to dig a well visited a neighbor and asked if he could borrow a long rope. "I need it myself," the first man replied. "Will you need it for a long time?" the second man inquired. "I think I shall. I am going to tie up some sand with it," was the answer. "I do not see how you can tie up sand with a rope," the other man exclaimed. "You can do almost anything with a rope when you do not want to lend it," the first man mused . . . Experiments showed that brook trout lose 2 6 per cent of their length within two hours of having been caught. The bit of stretching practiced by many fishermen is possibly an earnest attempt to give a truthful account of fish size at the actual time of landing . . . There is one advantage about the low value inflation dollar. If you forget your change you do not lose as much as formerly.

Victoria in Beard and Crinoline

From Files of The Daily British Colonist for October, 1860

By G. E. MORTIMORE

Newspapers of an earlier day did not act on the assumption that many of their readers were literal. They were not noted for over-simplifying, or getting to the point with unseemly haste, one might judge by a story which appeared in The British Colonist.

The Colonist was directing ridicule at an unnamed, probably fictitious, small paper whose editor felt that death called for an elegy in the classic style.

"Mr. Slocum has not been to a University, and his life has been in by-paths and out-of-the way places," the story began. "His mind is characterised by the littleness rather than the comprehensive grasp of great subjects.

"Mr. Slocum can, however, master a printed paragraph by dint of spelling the hard words in a deliberate manner, and managed to gain a few glimpses of things from his little rocky farm, through the medium of a newspaper. It is quite edifying to hear Mr. Slocum reading the village paper aloud to his wife after a hard day's work.

"A few evenings since, farmer Slocum was reading an account of a dreadful accident which had happened at the factory in the next town, and which the editor had described in a great many words.

"'I d'clare, wife, that was an awful accident over at the mills,' said Mr. Slocum.

"'What was it about, Mr. Slocum?'

"'I'll read the account, wife, then you'll know all about it.' Mr. S began to read:

"'"Horrible and Fatal Accident. It becomes our melancholy duty to record the particulars of an accident that occurred at the lower mill in this village yesterday afternoon, by which a human being, in the prime of life, was hurried to that bourne, from which, as the immortal Shakespeare said, no traveler returns.'

"'Do tell,' exclaimed Mrs. S.

"David Jones a workman who has but few superior this side of the city, was superintending one of the large drums when he became entangled. His arm was drawn around the drum, and finally his whole body was drawn over the shaft at a fearful rate.

"'When his situation was discovered, he had revolved with immense velocity about fifteen minutes, his head and limbs striking a large beam a distinct blow at every revolution. When the machinery had been stopped, it was found that Mr. Jones' arms and legs were macerated . . . portions of durmeta, corebrunt and cerebellum were scattered about the door. In short, the gates of eternity had opened upon him.'"

"Here Mr. Slocum paused to wipe his spectacles, and the wife seized the opportunity to press the question.

"'Was the man killed?'

"'I don't know—haven't come to the place yet—you'll know when I've finished the piece.' And Mr. Slocum continued reading.

"'It was evident, when the shapeless form was taken down, that it was no longer tenanted by the immortal spirit—that the vital spark was extinct.'

"'Was the man killed—that's what I want to come at,' said Mrs. Slocum.

"'Do have a little patience.'

"And he went on reading: 'This fatal casualty has cast a gloom over the village, and we trust that it will prove a warning to all persons who are called upon to regulate the powerful machinery in our mills.'

"'Now,' said Mrs. Slocum, 'I should like to know whether the man was killed or not.'

"Mr. Slocum looked puzzled. He scratched his head, scrutinizing the article he had been perusing.

"'I declare, wife,' said he. 'It's curious, but really the paper don't say.'"

Nehru and Gandhi in Plea to End India Strife

VIOLENCE, riots and death has accompanied one of greatest mass transfers of population in history of world during creation of independent states of India and Pakistan. Frightened and weary Moslems flee from India into Pakistan and Hindus move from Pakistan into India. Already hundreds of thousands of refugees have passed through border city of Amritsar where Government relief stations are set up to care for victims of tragic exodus. Group photograph shows tired Hindus waiting for train at Amritsar railroad station. Group is composed of only women and children. Menfolk were lost in Pakistan in strife that has torn India since transfer of power. See No Chance of Prices Dropping to 1939 Level

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP).—President Truman, Senator Taft and most United States Government economists are agreed on one thing: the United States is very unlikely to return to the prewar level of prices and wages in the foreseeable future.

The consensus is that the nation has moved on to a higher level of production and employment and that a permanent upward adjustment on wages and prices has been inevitable. The trend was well started even before wartime business controls were removed.

If this is true it means that the value of prewar dollars in terms of purchasing power has been permanently reduced.

Heavy losers are the persons with fixed incomes, who cannot take advantage of flexible wages and profits. They are the people living on pensions and annuities, the people who own savings accounts, life insurance, Government bonds and accrued Social Security benefits.

This doesn't necessarily mean that the level of prices will continue to be as high as it is now. Most Government experts say that unless the present inflation is unlike all those in the past, there will be some recession sooner or later.

But only a violent depression would bring prices down to prewar levels, say the economists, and few of them expect such a development—at least not within five to ten years and not under any condition now foreseeable.

Senator Taft said in San Francisco:

"Prices are permanently up above prewar prices. Since both wages and prices have risen—wages on the whole more than prices—we had better work toward a stabilisation of wages and prices at some new level, perhaps 50 or 60 per cent above 1939."

Taft said he believed the present level of both to be from 80 to 100 per cent above 1939.

The President made no guess as to the ultimate level of prices, but one well-informed administration economist said he did not think Senator Taft's estimate was far out of line.

Burglar Says "Boo" and Exchanges Loot

VANCOUVER, Oct. 26 (CP).—A laughing burglar who says "boo" to his victims and swaps their belongings indiscriminately, tonight was the object of police search.

Mrs. M. M. Griffiths reported she saw a man leaping her back fence with her mantel radio under his arm. He turned, laughed and cried: "Boo."

Less than an hour later, Mrs. A. Wilson, who lives in the same district, heard a noise in an upstairs room, heard a man laugh and run downstairs.

On her hall stand was the radio stolen from Mrs. Griffiths. Missing was $16.

See Fireworks For Red Probe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP).—The Congressional investigation of Communism in Hollywood sank into a week-end lull today. Next week, fireworks are likely.

At least the House Committee on un-American Activities looks for some. To be heard are a long list of witnesses who other witnesses have said are hooked up with the Reds in one way or another. One member remarked:

"Anything may happen next week. We are not going to tolerate any interruptions or permit anyone to attempt to make a scene."

Monday's witness list starts off with Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association, and possibly Roy Brewer, Hollywood labor union leader.

After Johnson will some screen writers John Howard Lawson, Alvah Bessie and Emmet Lavery. Numerous witnesses have said they believe, or think, or are sure, one or another of the trio are Communists or act like it.

Tradition places the castle of "Old King Cole" of the nursery rhyme in Colchester, England.

Famous Stagecoach Will Tour Canada

RIVER JOHN, N.S., Oct. 25 (CP).—A famous old Concord stagecoach which used to bounce its passengers over the rutted roads between Halifax, Truro and Pictou back in the 1850's will take to the highway again next Summer on a trans-Canada tour from Halifax to Vancouver.

At present displayed in the Green Hill Museum, the coach will make the tour as an advertising scheme formed by its owner, Charles Gammon of River John.

No Appreciable Move to Left Seen in Japan Since Elections

TOKIO, Oct. 25 (AP).—Japan, after more than two years of Allied occupation and five months under a Socialist Premier, is the scene of undercover struggles for power and clashes between ancient tradition and young freedom, but as a nation remains politically moderate and economically conservative.

No appreciable movement towards the left is likely under the present circumstances and the current balance of political power.

Top occupation officials and many foreign diplomats with whom this correspondent has talked during the past several days agree in forecasting for this conquered country a continued long plodding along parallel roads of reform and economic rehabilitation. Both roads are rocky.

SERIES OF REFORMS

A series of basic reforms now is in preparation at direction of Supreme Occupation Headquarters, calling for decentralization of the still vast economic and political power held by the oligarchs and aimed at stimulating a trend towards a competitive economy and autonomous local governments.

The Japanese Communist Party remains an active minority, with considerable influence in key labor unions but with little political power. This spearhead of Soviet interests has been blocked for the present, but it remains a continual threat.

Continued importation of food—provided by the United States—on at least the present level is held by all quarters to be an absolute "must" for avoiding unrest and Communist influence.

Current talk of peace has not affected the mechanics of occupation.

Few officials in Tokio expect any preliminary peace treaty activities before the first of the year, and nearly all of them estimate that even in the most united and cordial of atmospheres a conference might quire a year or more to complete its work. Some express optimism that Russia may finally join a peace parley.

There are no plans for immediate withdrawal of military forces, predominantly American, which probably will remain for considerably longer than another year.

General MacArthur, who runs the occupation, is a political moderate and a capitalist, and his views have guided implementation of the Far Eastern Commission's directives. It is considered unlikely that he will change his mind regarding economic alterations, despite some reports that the latest policy of this 11-nation commission of victors calls for further advances towards socialization.

Old Liberal Speech of Churchill's Thrown in His Face by Opposition

LONDON, Oct. 26 (CP).—Winston Churchill, rosy and beaming in his House of Commons front-bench seat as Leader of the Opposition, is being quoted by the Labor Government leaders in support of their plan to restrict the powers of the House of Lords. But his reply is yet to come.

As Home Secretary in a Liberal Government in 1911, Churchill was a leading figure in the campaign to limit the peers' powers. The Parliament Act of 1911 removed the right of the peers to halt any legislation from the Lower House.

Under it, money bills cannot be delayed and other legislation cannot be vetoed for more than two years. The forthcoming Labor bill, opposed by the Conservatives, will reduce the veto period to one year.

QUOTES CHURCHILL

Prime Minister Attlee, in support of Labor's plans, quoted Churchill in 1911 as being "almost aghast" at the moderation of the Liberals in leaving the Lords with power to delay legislation for two years. Attlee said he could not see why another "moderate curbing" of the Lords' powers should bring protest from the Opposition after the Labor victories at the polls.

Churchill still has to speak, but Conservative Party headquarters spokesmen gave this argument.

1. When the wartime Prime Minister spoke in 1911 the Lords were in a position to hamstring the work of the Government. The Liberal budget in 1909 had been thrown out by the peers in contravention of a gentleman's agreement that the Upper House would not meddle with monetary matters. The whole business and prosperity of the country thus was endangered.

2. The Liberal Administration cracked down on the Lords after the 1910 election in which the authority of the Upper House was the issue. The Liberals came back with a thumping majority and proceeded to pass the Parliament Act, knowing that they had the people's backing. No such verdict from the voters is being asked by the Government for the present change.

3. Instead of being obstructive, the present Conservative-dominated House of Lords has been co-operative with the Government. Nationalization legislation, unacceptable to the Conservatives, has been debated and passed. The Labor Government, unlike the Liberals, is unable to claim that its work has been hampered.

A Labor spokesman said that even if the Lords refuse to pass the measure reducing their own powers it can be made effective before the 1950 general election—that is two years after approval in the Commons, expected before Christmas.

Whether the Lords actually will oppose the measure to the extent of imposing the two-year veto remains to be seen because the wording and terms of the bill are still to be presented to Parliament.

THINGS HUMAN

HALLOWE'EN

If I were only seventeen . . . I'd count the hours 'till Hallowe'en . . . And make my plans to masquerade . . . As youngsters do, when they parade . . . I'd ring my neighbor's bell—and run . . . And feel, no doubt, that this was fun . . . With noisy tick-tacks made of spools . . . I'd work where peace and quiet rules.

A party might be right in line . . . Where I'd attend with pals of mine . . . An apple-ducking game would be . . . A lot of pleasant sport for me . . . And last of all but not the least . . . We'd share an appetising feast . . . Sweet cider served with pumpkin pie . . . And plates of doughnuts standing by.

I've had my fling—I'm on the shelf . . . But still I'll play a part myself . . . I'll have the porch and yard to clean . . . The morning after Hallowe'en.

IT IS WISE TO TAKE CARE OF YOUR EYES

(A series of articles to help you preserve your sight. Watch for them each week.)

WHAT IS MEANT BY NEARSIGHTEDNESS?

Nearsightedness or myopia, is a condition of the eye which causes the image of what one is observing to focus in front of the retina or nerve centre of the eye. A blurred image is thus formed on the nerve centre and this blurred image is relayed to the brain, resulting in our "seeing" a blurred object. This condition may be caused by the eyeball being too long or the refracting power of the eye being too strong. It can be remedied by means of a concave lens which bends the light rays so that a distinct image in exact focus is formed on the retina. Nearsightedness usually develops during early school life. It should be carefully corrected and the glasses may need changing from time to time. Neglect may be dangerous. It's wise to take care of your eyes.

HISTORIC MEDICAL HIGHLIGHTS—No. 27
THE FOUR F's OF TYPHOID
CURRENTLY, the most common methods of spreading Typhoid are referred to as the four F's—food, fingers, flies and faces. In 1880, however, little was known about the disease until Eberth discovered the typhoid organism. Since then, research has disclosed the sources of typhoid and the ways it is spread. An interesting case, showing how the disease was spread with fingers, was that of "Typhoid Mary" Mallon, a cook. Wherever she was employed, typhoid broke out. It was found that she was a carrier of billions of typhoid germs! Today inoculation and improved sanitation have greatly reduced the threat of typhoid.
There may be many ways of spreading disease, but there's only ONE way of treating an illness . . . and that is the RIGHT way. Our pharmacists know only one way of filling prescriptions . . . and that is—the RIGHT way!

Mme. Rimsky-Korsakoff, 79, Does Not Find Jazz Tiring

By JOSEPH MACKEY

North American Newspaper Alliance

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A little old lady, who came to town to see a musical show based on an incident in the life of Peter Ilych Tchaikovsky, expressed a few views on music here today

She is 78-year-old Mme Nicholai Rimsky-Korsakoff, whose uncle was Tchaikovsky and whose late husband's uncle was Composer Nicholai Rimsky-Korsakoff

Asked about serious modern music, she said: "I like the old masters better"

Jazz? A telltale twinkle came into her bright blue eyes. "I don't mind it a bit," she said. "It doesn't tire me"

She spoke more warmly of the music of her beloved "Uncle Peter"

"One of my earliest memories is of being in the room with him when he was composing 'Eugen Onegin'," she said. "That's one of my favorites of all he wrote, because it's very close to the life we led"

She remembers attending the premiere performance of the Sixth ("Pathetique") Symphony, now considered one of the world's great musical works, and that it was not well received.

"I didn't understand the music at that time," she said, "and I still don't like it as well as the Fifth."

Perhaps dearest to her of all her uncle's music, she said, is what she just calls "The Trio" (Trio in A Minor, Opus 50, for piano, violin and cello)

"When I die," she said, "I want a concert, and I want them to play 'The Trio'"

Mme Rimsky-Korsakoff was born Natalia Leovovna Davidoff, in Kamenka, in the Ukraine, the daughter of Tchaikovsky's only sister, Alexandra. Tschaikovsky had his own quarters on his sister's estate, and Mme Rimsky-Korsakoff recalls two incidents involving the composer—one when he perhaps saved her life, another when he tried to make her a musician.

The first took place when she was suffering from whooping cough. She went wading in a brook after some dragonflies and her uncle rushed her into the house. The other was when he gave her piano lessons for three months on the same piano on which he had learned to play.

"But there was only one case of music in our family," she said. "I don't play any instruments."

In 1890 she married the nephew of the famous composer, Nicholai Rimsky-Korsakoff, who later became a vice-admiral in the Russian navy and died in 1907. In 1923 she came to the United States. She has lived in Washington, East Orange, N.J., and for the last two years in Syracuse in a furnished apartment with her only surviving son, Vladimir. During part of her residence in the United States she gave Russian lessons, but in recent years she has been working on her autobiography with Miss Emeline Paige.

She came here this week with Vladimir to attend a performance of "Music in My Heart."

"I can't hear very well," she said. "So I missed most of the dialogue, but the music was lovely. And I liked the young man who played Tchaikovsky. I call him my new Uncle Peter."

Mary Derry and William Morris Married at Double-Ring Ceremony

At a double ring ceremony held at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, on Friday evening, Mary Joyce, daughter of Mr and Mrs S T Derry, 1971 St Ann Street, became the bride of William Richard Morris, son of Mr and Mrs R S Morris, of Airdrie, Alta., with Archdeacon A E deL Nunns officiating. Baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums were used to decorate the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a gown of rustling white taffeta, featuring off-the-shoulder frill and net inset, with a panel of bows highlighting the full skirt. Her floor-length veil was held with a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, white carnations and heather. A triple strand of pearls, the gift of the groom, completed her ensemble

Miss Joan Denison was maid of honor, wearing a gown of pale blue nylon net, with a coronet of flowers in her hair. Laurel Ann Adams, as flower girl, wore a gown of pink nylon, with a spray of flowers in her hair. Both attendants carried Colonial bouquets. Mr. Thomas B Derry was best man, while Mr Don McKerns and Mr. Roy Derry acted as ushers. During the signing of the register, the church choir sang "O Perfect Love"

At the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, Archdeacon Nunns proposed the toast to the bride. Mrs. Derry and Mrs. R M Lister, an aunt of the bride, received the guests. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake flanked by white candles and silver bowls of pink chrysanthemums.

For a honeymoon on the Mainland, the bride traveled in a brown gabardine suit, cherry red topcoat and brown and white accessories. Mr and Mrs Morris will make their home at 1971 St Ann Street upon their return.

A successful silver tea was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs E P. Cummins, North Road, to raise funds for the annual bazaar to be held on December 5. Mrs. E Smith poured tea, and assisting the hostess were Mrs J Jones, Mrs P Russel, Mrs G Mann and Mrs Waugh.

Pretty Wedding At Campbell River

A pretty wedding took place in St Peter's Church, Campbell River, on October 11, with Rev. W. R. S Nixon officiating when Doris Grace, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs William Olive, Campbell River, became the bride of Leonard C Froome, son of Mr. L. C. Froome of Wingham, Ont., and the late Mrs Froome

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of pale blue cut on princess lines with a floor-length lace embroidered veil. As "something old" she wore a gold heirloom bracelet belonging to her grandmother and carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations

Miss Margaret Olive, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, was gowned in pale blue net over taffeta, while Miss Peggy Nunns, as bridesmaid, wore yellow taffeta. Both wore headdresses of white flowers and carried bouquets of carnations.

Mr. Donald Olive supported the groom, while Mr. James Olive acted as usher. During the signing of the register Mrs. William McNeill sang "Because," and Mrs. Alex McLean presided at the organ.

A reception was held in the Legion Hall where the bridal table was centred with a four-tiered wedding cake. Mr Nixon proposed the toast to the bride

After a honeymoon in Victoria and Island points, Mr and Mrs. Froome will reside at Campbell River

To Make Home At Cobble Hill

St. John's Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening when Doris Gwendolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wylie, 1114 Johnson Street, exchanged vows with Kenneth Tom Spence, son of Mr and Mrs. J. D. Spence, of Ioco, B.C. Rev. George Biddle performed the ceremony.

Given in mariage by her father, the bride was lovely in ivory chiffon velvet styled with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and long full skirt. A Mary Stuart headdress held her embroidered full-length silk net veil. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls and she carried pink rosebuds, baby chrysanthemums and gardenias Miss Muriel Rendle, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor, and Miss Joy Collins, bridesmaid, wore identical gowns of pastel blue jersey silk fashioned with cape sleeves and accordion-pleated skirts. Bronze chrysanthemums matching the blooms in their bouquets, were tucked in their hair Long blue lace mitts completed their costumes.

The bridegroom had his brother Mr. James Spence, as best man, and Mr. Norman Wylie and Mr. Gordon Rendle, brother and cousin of the bride, ushered.

The reception was held at the Seamen's Institute Hall, where Mrs Wylie and Mrs. Spence welcomed the guests with the young couple. Arbutus berries and pampas grass with flowers in shades of blue and white decorated the hall. The three-tiered cake topped by a silver vase of pink rosebuds centred the table Mr William Payne gave the toast to his niece Assisting in serving were Mrs D. Taylor, Mrs. P O'Connor, Mrs J. O'Neill and Misses Ruth and Gladys Carson and Bette Ramsden

Leaving for a Mainland honeymoon the bride wore a beige crepe dress with wool topcoat in a deeper shade, brown accessories and a gardenia corsage.

The couple will live at Cobble Hill

Nursery School Membership Tea

The first meeting of the Nursery School Association of Greater Victoria took the form of a membership tea on Thursday at the home of the association's new president, Mrs. C. L Aylard, 510 St Charles Street. The president extended a warm welcome to the large number of members and guests present in spite of transportation difficulties.

Miss Violet Ashdown, organizing secretary, presented for discussion a plan of work for the year prepared by the executive committee. The need of enlisting the help of men and their organizations to lend support to the aims of the association was stressed Regular public meetings with a program of speakers and films showing different aspects of nursery school activities was endorsed

Dr M Sherman spoke of the value of such adult education efforts it children of this generation and next are to benefit. She urged the starting of small discussion groups of "two or three in the home, over a cup of tea" and called attention to a class for discussion leaders proposed by the committee on community centres.

Mrs S. Allen, vice-president, presided at the tea table assisted by Mrs E F Cox, Miss P Neal, Mrs. A J. Whitfield and Miss Elisabeth Girwin. Special guests of the afternoon were Mrs Ernest Evans and Mrs. W H Forest Mrs R Beckwith moved a vote of thanks to the hostess.

Parties for Brides-Elect

In honor of Miss Lynette Priestley, a November bride-elect, a surprise miscellaneous shower was given by Miss Margaret Spence, 2515 Fernwood Road. Corsages were presented to the honor guest, her mother, Mrs. A. Priestley, the groom-elect's mother, Mrs R. O Stoler, and his grandmother, Mrs Mary Stoler, who traveled from London in July to make her home with relatives here. Gifts were presented in a miniature mail box Other guests were Mrs. E. McIntyre, Mrs F Spence, Mrs. L. Romaril, Mrs G Carlow, Mrs G. Rorwell, Mrs. L. Lucas, and Misses Betty-Jean Saunders, Jessie Robertson, Mary Kerr and Helen McNaught.

Mrs. William C. Duncan and her mother, Mrs H. W Hall were joint hostesses at a surprise personal shower on Friday evening at the home of the latter, 1414 Harrison Street in honor of Miss Marjorie Cook, whose marriage to Flt.-Lt. James D Duncan takes place shortly. The guest of honor was presented with a corsage of sweetheart roses, violets and crushed carnations. The many lovely gifts were concealed in an open umbrella decorated in turquoise blue and white The rooms were prettily arranged with Fall flowers and dainty refreshments were served from the dining-room table covered with a natural linen cut-work cloth and centred with a silver bowl of yellow chrysanthemums The guests were Mrs W. E Cook, Mrs J. Duncan, Mrs. M Eley, Mrs. A. W. Smith, Mrs. F Gray, Mrs C. Warn, Mrs. N Matheson and Misses Margaret Cook, Doris and Evelyne Eley, Pat Smith and Kay Smith.

A surprise shower in honor of Miss Maureen Caselton, bride-elect, was given at her home, 1334 Burleith Crescent and arranged by Miss Shirley Going The many gifts were concealed in a decorated basket. Guests were Mrs. R. V. Caselton, Mrs. J. Robertson, Mrs C. Hudson, Mrs. J. Heard, Mrs R Hallam and Misses Kathleen and Eileen Waters, Cecilia Daniels, Lorraine Mitchell, D Heal, Colleen Connor, Doris and Grace Barnsley, Madeline Atterson, Beryl Bearn, Betty Broome, Nancy Dee, Shirley Ellis and Gloria Caselton.

Former associates of the Department of Education held a tea on Saturday afternoon in Spencer's dining-room, in honor of Miss Edna I White, a bride-elect of this month A gift of silver was made to the honored guest. Among those present were Mrs R. C McKinnon, A Monk, M McMinn, L. Lewis and Misses J. Kilner, J. Webb, D. Drummond-Hay, N. Neave, A. Eldridge, C. Palsh, M Jardine and E Wilson.

Isobel Hunter Weds J. Roper

At Fairfield United Church on Saturday evening, Isobel Raymond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs A. B Hunter, 1328 Minto Street, was united in marriage with John Roper, James Island, son of Mr William Roper, Nanaimo, and the late Mrs Roper Rev William Allan read the nuptial service.

Entering the church with her father, the bride was charming in white satin fashioned with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and full skirt ornamented with a satin rose A coronet of orange blossoms held her embroidered veil and she carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and swainsona.

Mrs. K Duncan, New Westminster, gowned in pink net over taffeta with matching flower-hat, and arm bouquet of pink carnations and white chrysanthemums, was the bride's only attendant.

Mr. Sidney Cartwright was his brother-in-law's best man and the ushers were Mr. Claude Belfrage and Mr. Walter Hinchcliffe.

During the signing of the register Mr. Ian MacNaughtan sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The reception was held at Terrys' roseroom where Mrs. Hunter, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Roper, stepmother of the groom, assisted the young couple in receiving Autumn flowers in shades of pink and white decorated the table which was centred with the three-tiered cake. Mr Herbert Carefoot proposed the health of the bride.

For a honeymoon in Vancouver and Seattle, the bride chose a moss green gabardine suit with Winter-white topcoat and hat, black accessories and a mauve orchid corsage

The couple will live in Victoria for the present.

Marie McDonough Wears Satin Gown

The marriage of Marie Theresa, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs Fred McDonough, Balmoral Road, to Roy Deeth, Vancouver, son of Mr. Richard De'Ath and the late Mrs. De'Ath was solemnized by Rev. Father Donal Lehane, at the Bishop House, on Saturday evening

The pretty bride given away by her father, was gowned in white brocaded satin fashioned on princess lines with sweetheart neck and long sleeves. Her embroidered veil cascaded from a net headdress ornamented with lily of the valley. Her only jewelry was a double string of pearls, the gift of the groom, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses and swainsona.

Mrs E. Brophy, gowned in peach taffeta with matching jacket, pink net gloves and gold calot with pink shoulder veil, was matron of honor. Miss Diane Petres, niece of the groom, wearing a dress of white net over blue taffeta trimmed with blue velvet bows, and bandeaux of pink split carnations in her hair, was the junior bridesmaid Both carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations and chrysanthemums.

The best man was Mr. Earl Brophy and Mr Gerald McDonough ushered.

The reception was held at 823 Harbinger Road, where Mrs. McDonough and Mrs. Don Petres, sister of the groom, welcomed the guests with the bridal couple The lace-covered table was centred with a three-tiered cake flanked by white chrysanthemums. The toast was given by Mr. Edward Wilcox

After a honeymoon in Seattle for which the bride wore a dressmaker suit of American beauty red with silver grey topcoat, black accessories and a gardenia corsage, Mr and Mrs Deeth will make their home in Vancouver

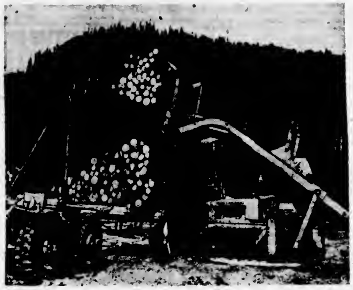
Pulp Log Drive Under Way in Province of Quebec



Greatest pulp log drive in Canada's history gets under way in Quebec as 12,000,000 logs are bounced down St. Maurice River into Lake La Tuque. Tons of logs can be seen nowadays bounding down chutes into river. Above, carrier lifts five cords at once for stocking, trucking to nearby river chutes.

May Initiate Elizabeth Into Knights of Garter

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP).—The Knight Companions of the Order of the Garter, who are mostly sedate statesmen, field marshals and bishops, are decorously excited over the prospect of receiving a pleasant young lady into their select company.

Reports persist that before or shortly after her marriage Princess Elizabeth will be initiated into what is regarded the highest order of British chivalry. Some palace circles predict that the "Noble Garter" will be one of her wedding gifts.

But this is a subject on which there can be little authentic speculation because only one person decides who goes into and who stays out of the order. The King is the sole elector and no one is privileged to make any recommendations to the matter.

The Princess, should she be initiated, would not be the only woman in the noble company. There are three others among living members, all queens—Mary and Elizabeth of Britain and Wilhelmina of The Netherlands.

Despite its exclusive character, the order has been conspicuous in the news of this year, being accompanied by some lifting of eyebrows.

That was last March when one of the insignia of the order, the Velvet Garter with its cluster of diamonds and rubies, was sold in public auction at which anyone could bid and brought £3,000 ($12,000) to the owner, the new Earl of Lonsdale. He inherited it from his father, who had been a Knight Companion and while there was no questioning his legal right to sell it to the highest bidder, it has been tradition for heirs to return the insignia and robes to the King.

Official explanations put the matter right. At the investiture the sovereign presents an insignia of paste. Many knights then duplicate the insignia in precious stones. It is usually the paste that is returned to the King on a knight's death.

The order was founded by King Edward III in 1348, but most historians dismiss the popular story of its origin.

The tale is that the King was dancing with Joan, the Countess of Salisbury, and that as they executed a fast step the lady's garter fell to the floor. Some of the titled witnesses, whose manners should have been better, snickered, and the report which the historians are trying to discredit is that the gallant King picked up the garter with the classic comment:

"Honi soit qui mal y pense."

Whatever the cold historical circumstances may be, the fact remains that the phrase attributed to the King—"Evil to him who evil thinks"—remains the motto of the order, and its insignia is a garter.

The knights wear it about the left leg. The ladies make a bracelet of it, worn about the left wrist.

Aside from members of the British Royal Family, the number of knight companions is limited to 25. There are at least two vacancies, due to the deaths of King George of Greece and King Christian of Denmark.

At least one distinguished commoner didn't care to be a member. Winston Churchill declined, with eloquent thanks, in 1945.

Juliana, Now Regent of Holland Lives Life of Ordinary Person

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 26 (AP).—When Princess Juliana, one year old, was shown to the Dutch by her mother, Queen Wilhelmina, for the first time, in 1910, on a drive through Amsterdam, a Hollander called to his wife, "Quick, mother, the child is coming."

She has remained "the child" in the hearts of the Dutch, who never fail to demonstrate in public their affectionate feelings for her. Having no brothers or sisters, she also was "the child" to her mother, who personally undertook her education for her future responsibilities as Queen of The Netherlands.

The time she will assume Royal power, apparently is not far off. She was sworn in October 14 as Regent of the kingdom to execute Royal functions until December 1, enabling Queen Wilhelmina to retire temporarily for a complete rest. The Queen is expected to abdicate after her jubilee next year.

The only child of Queen Wilhelmina and the German Prince Hendrik, Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, who died in 1934, Juliana was born April 30, 1909, in the Royal Palace at The Hague. Clad in the christening robe of her grandfather, King William III, she was baptised into the Reformed Church and named Juliana Louise Emma Marie Wilhelmina, Princess of The Netherlands, Princess of Orange-Nassau, Duchess of Mecklenburg.

The Princess grew up in conservative surroundings and longed for the moment that she would become of age. "Then I'll buy at least a dozen pairs of high-heeled shoes," she said.

Even as a child of four she had to perform official duties in the company of her parents. She did not attend school, as her own daughters are doing, and played with few children of her own age. Etiquette was less rigid, however, than at other European courts.

PRAISED FOR ABILITY

On her 18th birthday she got her own palace and household at The Hague. Soon after, she became a student at the University of Leyden where she lived a regular student life and professors praised her diligence and inquisitive intelligence.

After receiving an honorary doctor's degree from the university, Juliana traveled with her mother on various trips abroad. She met the then 25-year-old German Prince Bernhard of Lippe-Biesterfield at the German Winter sports centre of Garmisch-Partenkirchen.

Juliana and Bernhard were married January 7, 1937 and their first child, Beatrix, was born January 31, 1938. The Dutch had hoped for a son who would be the first male heir to the throne since the death of King William in 1890. Another daughter, Irene, followed on August 5, 1939. Their third daughter, Margriet, was born at Ottawa, January 19, 1943, when Juliana was in Canada during the war, and a fourth daughter, Marijke, was born February 18, 1947.

Juliana's household is that of a well-to-do, but not rich family. There is no court etiquette, no ladies in waiting, no chamberlains. Her children go to school, like any other children, and Juliana repeatedly has appealed to the Dutch to leave them alone and not watch them like animals in a zoo.

United Nations Health Group Sets Example in Cholera Fight

CAIRO, Oct. 25 (AP).—The battle against Egypt's cholera epidemic has become an outstanding example of international co-operation.

Britain, Soviet Russia, the United States, France, Italy, Holland, Switzerland, Lebanon, Syria and Iraq have made vaccine, blood plasmas or drugs available to the Egyptian Government. Offers of supplies from Brazil, Sweden, Poland, South Africa and China have been accepted.

Governments everywhere are watching Egypt's campaign against the epidemic which, in its first 31 days, resulted in 2,606 cases and 588 deaths.

HEALTH GROUP SENT

Only a few weeks ago the United Nations Security Council was unable to agree on any resolution concerning Prime Minister Nokrashy Pasha's demand for complete withdrawal of British troops from the Nile Valley and a merger of Egypt and the Sudan. There was no delay, however, when the United Nations World Health Organization was called on to place its services at Egypt's disposal.

Cholera, with its high death rate was once common in parts of the Middle East. In Iraq, big epidemics used to occur about every four years, but the last one, when some 1,000 cases were reported, was in 1931.

The Governments of Palestine, Syria, the Lebanon, Iraq, Iran and Turkey are taking the strictest measures to prevent an outbreak of cholera in their territories. In addition to launching inoculation campaigns, vaccination certificates are required of travelers from Egypt and these are quarantined for several days. Importation of Egyptian foodstuffs and agricultural produce in many cases has been banned.

SPREAD RAPIDLY

It was on September 22 that cholera broke out at Korein village, in Egypt's northernmost province, Sharkia, which extends to the Suez Canal zone, where thousands of British troops are stationed. In less than 24 hours, cases had appeared as far east as Suez, south of Luxor, in the upper Egyptian province of Kena, and west in Dakahlia, Gharbia, Menoufia and Giza provinces.

Egyptian troops have isolated affected areas and aircraft have been employed for disinfection purposes, including DDT spraying. Special decontamination squads have been created, and the Government has banned the import into Cairo of produce from the infected areas. Opening of schools and universities was postponed indefinitely and all courts in stricken areas were closed. Sea bathing was forbidden.

LESSON FOR COPS

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!
Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.
The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.
Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.
Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-noted for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Largest Radio Network in Dominion Helps to Cut Down Forest Fire Toll

If in a quiz contest you were asked to name the biggest radio network in Canada, odds are heavy that you wouldn't come up with the right answer.

To win the prize, you would have to say the British Columbia Forest Service.

In number of stations, if not in area coverage, there is no other network in the Dominion approaching it. In the Summer fire season recently ended the Forest Service operated 313 units throughout the province's 355,000 square miles of territory, and all year round keeps 70 to 80 on regular schedules.

Most of the seasonal units are tiny portable jobs weighing only 23 pounds, yet powerful enough to enable headquarters to keep a finger on the fire pulse of the whole province.

They are a leading factor in a steadily-expanding fire-fighting plan that year-by-year is cutting cost of forest protection and—more important still—the once staggering loss of forest wealth in the racing Summer flames.

The Forest Service has just got through a fire season without a single major conflagration, and at a cost amounting to less than one-third the average for the last ten years, and one-fifth the average for the preceding decade.

When all claims are in, cost of fighting forest fires this year is expected to run to about $80,000. In 1925 before operations were brought to their present-day pitch of efficiency, the bill for fire suppression alone was $617,000, without taking into account the huge toll of destruction of cut logs and standing timber.

Even in the last decade average yearly bill for fire fighting was $164,939, and between 1925 and 1935 it stood at $283,375.

RADIO MAJOR FACTOR

With lightning causing by far the greatest number of fires, man hasn't yet been able to find a way to prevent them. But improved communications are giving him a better chance of suppressing them in the incipient stage.

In this, use of radio is proving a major factor. It is not the only one however. Expanding use of aircraft is helping rangers not only to spot fires early, but also to get equipment and supplies speedily to the men on the ground who have to fight them.

Third factor in success of the Forest Service's work in recent years is the stand-by fire suppression crew plan, which keeps highly mobile crews on call at strategic points in forest zones.

Additional and more strategically located lookout stations also are playing an important part in an intensified plan of fire detection.

In the elaborate radio network, headquarters of the service in Victoria maintains year-round schedules with its five district headquarters, in Vancouver, Kamloops, Nelson, Prince George and Prince Rupert.

Each of them in turn operates a district network of fire season schedules taking in assistant ranger headquarters, lookouts, patrols and field portables.

No fewer than 235 of the little portable battery sets, all with "voice" transmitters, provide communications from lookouts, temporary headquarters, patrols and fighters on the fire line. Out on the coast, 15 Forest Service launches are radio equipped to keep their headquarters in touch with developments.

"SMOKE JUMPERS"

Tying in with the big network on the ground are all the aircraft used during the fire season. These carry more elaborate radio equipment, enabling them to talk with their own control towers on one frequency, with district headquarters on another, and with headquarters network on a third.

Although the service got through this year without a major fire, officials realize there are bound to be some in most years, with British Columbia's vast undeveloped territories and absence of roads and trails.

They believe the answer will be found eventually in the use of "smoke jumpers" — parachutist teams dropped within short distance of fires.

A limiting factor there is the high cost of individual outfits and poor recovery possibilities. 'Chutes and other essential equipment items for jumpers cost from $300 to $600 per man. If they can't be salvaged, cost of fighting even a small outbreak is going to run high.

In the United States, where parachutists are being used extensively, percentage of recovery of equipment is high because the country has more extensive systems of roads and trails.

There is another disadvantage in this province. Parachutists can be dropped only within reasonable distance of road or trail. They can't be dropped in the wilderness and left there to fend for themselves with little or no chance of food and supplies reaching them.

Books and Authors

A new novel by Marcia Davenport, "East Side, West Side," set in postwar New York, with its tempo of incongruous luxury, highlights the Autumn book list of S. J. Reginald Saunders.

First novel by Miss Davenport since the movie-famous "Valley of Decision," the story uses a woman, Jessie Bourne, as its main character, and through her the sights, sounds and smells of New York's rich and poor become close-knit to attain a distinctive personality.

From the Canadian side, "Towards the Sunset," by Muriel Elwood, final part of her French-Canadian trilogy, is also worthy of note. In her earlier volumes of the same series, "Heritage of the River," and "Deeper the Heritage," Miss Elwood portrayed family life in the pioneer days of Montreal, and in her latest continues in the same vein.

As well as writing interesting fiction with extremely human characters, Miss Elwood has taken some pains to probe the French-Canadian character with a sympathetic understanding of the forbears of many Canadians today.

STUDIES JAPANESE

In the non-fiction section, a study of the Japanese people in Canada during the war, "The Canadian Japanese in World War II," by Forrest E. La Violette, associate history professor at McGill University should prove of interest to British Columbians.

The book describes the activities of 24,000 of these people in Canada, the Government policy toward them, and what is more interesting, their reactions.

He deals with postwar policies of resettlement and its consequences to their behaviour.

* * *

Another Autumn list recently issued through the Jonathan David Company in Montreal is that of Pantheon Books from England.

In more classic vein than American and Canadian publishing houses, yet none the less interesting, the catalogue lists several extremely unusual works. One, "The Mirror of Magic," presents a condensed account of the magical ideas and operation in the civilized Western world.

SURREALIST VIEWS

The author, a well-known surrealist painter, is mainly concerned with the aesthetic value of magic and its influence on man's creative imagination. A large number of illustrations adds to the book's attraction.

For juveniles, "The Wonderful Adventures of Nils," by Swedish author Selma Laeerlof, is the second part in translation of one of the greatest contemporary classics of the field. The story blends delightful folklore of Sweden with a fondness and understanding of animal life.

* * *

Another animal story rapidly achieving fame, and this week for the first time appearing on the best seller list, is "Dirty Eddie," Ludwig Bemelman's tale of a little black pig who goes to Hollywood. This clever satire published in Canada by Macmillan's, hits at the heart of the movie colony. Eddie, by the way, makes $5,000 a week when on location.

ESCAPED NAZIS

The German novelist who was reported to have been beheaded by the Nazis in 1943 but who escaped twice, Lion Feuchtwanger, also made the best-seller list this week with "Proud Destiny," a panoramic historical novel. Canadian publication of the work is now under way.

* * *

Not very bookish, but quite interesting nevertheless, is a piece recently written for Encyclopaedia Americana by a Russian-born French octogenarian, Serge Voronoff, that man's life span is actually from 120 to 140 years.

The greater number of persons dying in the 70-75 age group, says Dr. Voronoff, do so prematurely.

In his discussion of longevity, the scientist, who is director of experimental surgery of Station Physiologique du College du France, claims that at this age humans are still well preserved mentally and physically, and that their deaths are the result of such illnesses as pneumonia or heart disease.

DEATHS ACCIDENTAL

These deaths, he says, should be considered accidental.

Like many things, he concludes living for a long time is an hereditary trait, the same as color of eyes and hair.

* * *

A novel dealing at great length with pain and its misty realms of semi-consciousness is "Escape to Live," a war story by Edward Howell and published by Longmans.

The writer, an English airman who becomes a foot soldier during the invasion of Crete and who is severely wounded, does not write merely about adventure in combat. Instead he discusses man's triple struggle, that of life, to escape from captivity and to surrender his soul to a new guiding faith.

Purpose of the novel is to reveal the motives which have always inspired men to shake off their indolence and chains.

Current Reviews

"Canadian Spring," by Florence Page Jaques, illustrated by Francis Lee Jaques; The Musson Book Company, Ltd.; $3.50.

Fifth collaboration in book-form by the writer-artist team of Florence Page Jaques and Francis Lee Jaques "Canadian Spring" is truly a delightful narrative that will interest—and quite possibly surprise—many readers who think they know the Canadian Prairies.

Mrs. Jaques has a clamorously light-hearted and enthusiastic pen and the illustrations by her husband will be familiar in their alert, living style to thousands through his magazine work.

CARRIES READER ALONG

"Canadian Spring" comes closer than any similar book read by this reviewer to actually "taking the reader along." The feeling is one of being present at all times, and of learning with pleased surprise so many things unsuspected or taken for granted about the abundant wild life of our own country.

Mr and Mrs Jaques were drawn northwest from New York by the smell, one crisp Spring morning, of "Canadian air." Their car took them through Winnipeg and Portage la Prairie first to Delta, at the southern tip of Lake Manitoba.

There for many days they lived at the Delta Waterfowl Research Station, with Ornithologist Albert Hockbaum. Their time was spent on the reed-rimmed waters, studying the living habits of the many varieties of duck, geese and other waterfowl that come there every Spring to court, mate and raise their fuzzy young ones.

All of this could be quite dull stuff—were it not written with such zest and liveliness, or illustrated with such fine black-and-white "portraits." The reader finds that human beings are far from having a monopoly of "human" characteristics and qualities.

MOVE NORTH

From Delta, Mr. and Mrs. Jaques move north into Riding Mountain National Park for a glimpse of elk, then south again to the main highway and westward across Southern Saskatchewan and Alberta to Waterton Lakes, over the Rockies to the Kootenays, and north to Banff, Lake Louise and Jasper.

The motor trip east is broken twice once by a train-and-car ride far into the Peace River country, and again by train to The Pas and Flin Flon. Finally, the Jaques return to Delta for another visit with their bird-friends (ours, too, by this time) before returning home.

It is not possible to recapture entirely the spirit of "Canadian Spring" in a review. This reviewer is not a naturalist, much less an ornithologist, yet he found it difficult to put the book aside (in the best mystery-novel tradition), and when he had finished, he laid the book down with a deep conviction that he would read it again, and would recommend it to his friends.—E.M.S.

"The Sure Hand of God," by Erskine Caldwell, Collins, Toronto; $3.

Erskine Caldwell returns at his best—or worst, depending on your viewpoint—in this latest racy novel. Far below the quality that made "Tobacco Road" a famous novel, "The Sure Hand of God," nevertheless has the same ingredients that will please or alienate readers. Certainly moralists will again be repulsed by the realism of Mr Caldwell's ability at description and suggestion.

"What a life for the female element!" sums up the philosophy of blowsy Molly Bowser, Caldwell's principal character. Molly had a hard life, and things shape up little better for her attractive daughter Lily.

Wine-drinking Molly is an example of good characterization, and this reviewer has no hesitation in strongly recommending "The Sure Hand of God" to all Caldwell fans or likers of realistic, earthy fiction. —F.C.B.

How Labor Feels about our Community Chest

WE OF ORGANIZED LABOR join all groups of responsible citizens in supporting fully our Community Chest campaign.

We are for it. And we have particular reasons.

The labor movement by long tradition and practice has stood solidly for the cause of the welfare, the dignity and the self-respect of human beings. The Community Chest is an able spokesman for this cause. Labor uses the Red Feather services. We want our boys and girls and all youngsters to benefit from the wholesome fun, sports, hobbies and fine educational programs of the Red Feather youth services . . . We want health protected, family security strengthened, aged and handicapped people cared for with kindness and understanding.

And so we support the Community Chest, not only by our daily use of its services and our annual gifts to its campaign, but by our growing volunteer participation in its planning and policy-making bodies. We support the Chest, not as a "charity for the underprivileged," but as a federation of fine community services for everybody whose high privilege it is to live and work in a Canadian community.

We believe that the Community Chest is the sound, sensible and fair way to plan and to support health and welfare services. Here, indeed, is a job in which all citizens of good will can unite, forgetting the many things that tend to divide us . . . remembering the one big thing that unites us—our common humanity.

This is good trade unionism—good democracy—and good sense.

New Report Lists Regulations On Christmas Parcels for U.K.

Useful information concerning United Kingdom regulations affecting the sending of Christmas parcels to Britain is contained in a lengthy report received yesterday from the United Kingdom Information Office.

Pertinent regulations governing such parcels sent to Britain follow

1. All parcels entering the United Kingdom are liable to the appropriate rates of duty and/or purchase tax. There is no exemption for Christmas gifts, or any other kind of gift. Nor is there any exemption for parcels below a certain value.

2. Conditions applying to all gift parcels are They must not weigh more than 22 pounds, or 20 pounds if sent via parcel post; they must be bona fide unsolicited gifts, and must be marked as such; they must bear an itemized list of contents.

3. In connection with duty and tax No duty or tax is at present levied on food parcels; infants' clothing of cotton or wool, and used clothing are tax free no duty is levied on Canadian goods, with the exception of liquor, tobacco, and a few luxury items such as silks, nylon, furs, perfumes, watches, phonograph records, etc., a purchase tax is levied on practically everything—the rate varying in accordance with the essentiality or otherwise of the item

In connection with the surrender of coupons by persons receiving gifts in the United Kingdom, it is reported "it is not normally the practice at present to ask for the surrender of coupons in respect of gifts of articles subject to rationing in the United Kingdom"

Duty on such parcels cannot be prepaid in Canada. Only way to relieve the recipient of the burden of paying duty is to send an international money order or other similar negotiable paper for the approximate amount.

Detailed information on rates of duty and purchase tax can be obtained from the Foreign Tariffs Division, Department of Trade and Commerce, from the United Kingdom High Commissioner's Office, or the United Kingdom Information Office in Ottawa.

Supply of Cattle Better for Week

OTTAWA, Oct 25 (CP).—Unsettled livestock market conditions in Canada this week appeared to be clearing up with the end of the packinghouse dispute and deliveries to cattle markets increased, the Dominion Agriculture Department reported in its weekly livestock report.

However, commission firms were warning shippers against any excess flow to market in case of overloading and decreased prices, and declines in cattle prices were confined to the East, with Western markets steady to a shade firmer.

At Toronto, weighty steers were taken up to $15, but most were $14 50 downward, and butcher steers, $11-$14 In Montreal good steers brought $14, and medium kinds, $12-$13.

Better grades of slaughter steers continued in firm demand at Winnipeg at $14-$14 50, Calgary, $13 50-$14 65, Edmonton, $14, Prince Albert, $13, Moose Jaw, $14, Saskatoon, $14 Regina, $13, and Vancouver, $13-$14.

Exports of dairy cattle for the week totaled 1,121 head, compared with 1,550 in the corresponding week a year ago. Exports from January 1 this year to date total 42,844, against 57,458 in the same period last year

Little change was shown in calf prices. Toronto paid $16-$18 50 for choice veals, Montreal, $14 50; Winnipeg, $14-$15; Calgary, $12-$13, Edmonton, $13, Prince Albert, $12 Moose Jaw, $12 Saskatoon, $13, and Regina, $12-$13

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — The Stock Market today finished its first losing week since mid-September with liquidation drying up and assorted favorites edging timidly toward recovery.

Throughout the week dealings were among the liveliest of the year, with Friday's volume crossing the million mark for the tenth successive session. Earnings, dividends and business optimism still provided bolstering arguments, but offerings became more insistent after Monday's advance. Professionals cashed profits, and there were reports of institutional selling based on the idea the list had approached the highs of last July and failed to follow through.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .1 of a point at 66 3, but showed a net loss of .7 on the week, first since the period concluded September 12. Of 729 issues registering in the two hours, 267 rose and 224 fell. For the six days, the total was 7,677,250 shares, a top since the period of February 8 which, in turn, was the largest since the stretch of December 14.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (AP). — Heavy liquidation entered the grain pits on the Chicago Board of Trade today, forcing the December contract below $3 at times for the first session this week

Prices at the start were substantially higher Within the first 10 minutes, however, the market reversed itself and dropped below the previous close It never rallied to the opening levels.

There was a moderate amount of support from commercial interests in wheat, reflecting sales of 675,000 bushels of cash wheat to the Commodity Credit Corporation at Minneapolis yesterday.

Government activity was outweighed as a market influence by uncertainty regarding President Truman's anti-inflation program, scattered rains in the southwest, and an Agriculture Department report showing heavy stocks of wheat as of October 1.

LARGE ENOUGH; SMALL ENOUGH

There is a definite advantage in size. We are large enough to provide thoroughly efficient and economical estate administration; small enough to extend the human touch.

The management of estates — no matter how conscientious — doesn't stop with technical service. The human element must never be lost sight of.

As executor, we have two objectives: the one is to provide the utmost benefits for the beneficiaries; the other is to treat those beneficiaries in a friendly, considerate manner.

We invite you to discuss your estate plans with us.

Beekeeping Shows Steady Expansion in Last Two Decades

—Colonist Photos

HONEY production in British Columbia has increased from 20 tons during 1611 to present 800 tons annually. In top photo, Charles Warren, 1698 Lansdowne Road, is shown inspecting section of his hives or "colonies." Below, Warren places "frame" in 30-frame extractor. Extractor whirls frames around at 300 revolutions per minute, thus drawing out honey, which falls to base of extractor where tap is situated to govern flow. Warren has about 100 hives, some at his Lansdowne Road home and remainder at Swan Lake and Chemainus River area.

Beekeeping Grows Into "Big Business"

One of the lesser-known industries in British Columbia, that of bee-keeping, has developed to such an extent in recent years that about 800 tons of honey are produced annually. According to the Provincial Government's Department of Agriculture, there is still room for improvement.

It can readily be realized how production had increased when it is known that in 1611 the total honey crop for the year was estimated at only 20 tons. In recent years, individual commercial keepers have produced that much alone.

A visit to the apiary of Charles Warren, 1698 Lansdowne Road, gives the average Victorian an idea of the "ups and downs" of a bee-keeper. Although only active in the business a few years, Mr Warren and his wife have mde a profitable sideline of raising bees for honey.

"It is a sideline in the Winter time, but I have to give it all my time in the Summer," said Mr Warren, who leaves his sheet metal working job during the Summer to concentrate on his bees.

Mr Warren, who is aided by his wife, explains that his first crop is "blended" honey, which is a mixture of all Spring flowers. This, depending on the weather, usually is around the end of June. However, his main crop is that of "fireweed." Mr. Warren maintains "colonies" at Swan Lake and in the Chemainus River region.

All hives can be moved to various parts of the country in order to catch the various "crops." For instance, fireweed is abundant in many logged-off sections up-Island, so commercial men transport their colonies to these areas to reap the benefit of the seasonal crops.

For profitable honey production it is essential that the bees should be located where there is abundant nectar-yielding flora. In selecting a location to keep bees on an extensive scale, the resources of the country are thoroughly investigated by keepers.

It is for this reason that Mr Warren, and many other keepers, move their hives to other areas in the country. However, it is an unwritten law among fair-minded bee-keepers not to encroach too closely on another person's territory for fear of decreasing the average production per colony.

Salal, Canadian thistle and Scotch thistle are also predominant up-Island, where conditions are considered more suitable than in Victoria. The Cariboo is also said to be extremely suitable, but best conditions in Canada are believed to be in some sections of the Prairie Provinces.

Honey production in the Victoria area usually starts about April 15, and as a rule is over by the end of June. This is the time when commercial men ship their hives to more productive areas in order to get "another flow."

A government inspector visits all apiaries about twice a year. The two brood diseases of bees, known as American foul-brood and European foul-brood, are both in evidence every year in British Columbia. Additional causes of death are chilled brood, malnutrition, starved or neglected brood, suffocated or overheating brood and spray poisoning.

TONS WASTED

According to a Department of Agriculture report, in spite of steady increase in the number or registered apiaries and corresponding increase in production, the honey supply of the province still falls short of the requirements of the home market. As hundreds of tons of honey annually go to waste in the province through lack of bees to gather the nectar, there seems to be no reason why this province should not supply the shortage in its own market now made up by importations from other provinces, the report states.

British Columbia honey from various parts of the province was exhibited for three successive years at the Imperial Fruit and Honey Show in England, and received the greater portion of the awards in Empire competition. There is a ready market for all the honey produced in the province, as it has always commanded a premium price over the imported product on a quality basis.

It is interesting to note that all beginners among bee-keepers suffer from bee-stings, but, as a rule, the ill effects gradually wear off as the system becomes used to the poison, until after a time very little inconvenience is felt.

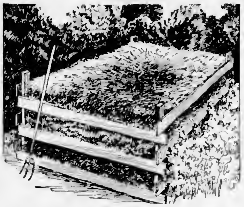
Some bee-keepers, however, are unable to acquire immunity from the sting poison, or unable to overcome the feeling of nervousness in handling bees. Government officials advise, in this case, to give up the idea of keeping bees.

DOUGHNUT THIEF

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — A thief with a taste for dunking climbed into Bakery Driver John Blommestyn's parked wagon and stole a quantity of doughnuts. He also took a brand new cigarette lighter—presumably to light that after-coffee smoke.

The Garden Column

Precious Leaf-Mould



If leaves are piled up and allowed to decay, they produce leaf-mould, one of the most useful conditioners which amateur gardeners can have. The more he advances to the practice of his hobby, the more useful will the gardener find this material, states James H. Burdett, National Garden Bureau. So do not burn leaves. Pile them up and invite your neighbors who are not keen on gardening to bring their dead leaves over to your pile. If you use no special treatment to hasten their decay, in two years at most they will be reduced to leaf-mould. But one may easily shorten this period by months.

Set aside a suitable location, out of the way and preferably screened by planting or a fence, ten by ten feet on the average. Clean off all vegetation and harden the surface soil by rolling. Pile evenly over this area all dead leaves and other waste plant and even animal material, from your garden and from kitchen wastes. But carefully exclude all wood, branches, twigs and metal objects.

When the layer, well tramped down, is six inches thick, sprinkle it with a balanced fertilizer mixture, about one ounce to a square yard. Wood ashes and limestone are also beneficial, each in three or more times this quantity. Then wet it down. Build up the heap layer by layer with similar applications between the layers, and keep it moist. When pile is as high as you can conveniently manage, cover top with soil and let stand until ready to dig humus into garden.

Planting Young Trees

If you're planning to plant young trees this Fall, resolve right now not to plant them too deep. Remember that a tree or shrub should never be planted even one inch lower than it was in its former location. Best plan to Fall planting, advises Dean Halliday, garden expert of Central Press Association, is to plant a bit higher rather than lower as a well-prepared bed will settle some during the Winter. When a tree or shrub is planted too low the root system cannot properly absorb moisture and food. The extra soil heaped upon it prevents the entrance of air which is essential for the promotion of growth. Without air the bacteria cannot function and aid in the release of nitrogen, phosphorous and other plant food.

During tree planting operations undue exposure of the stock should be avoided. A piece of burlap or a shovelful of earth thrown over the roots will help materially in reducing losses from drying out of the roots. If you are purchasing shrubs for Fall planting, select healthy plants rather than ones that are merely large. Stock which is medium-sized is easier to handle and will outgrow large-sized shrubs within two or three years. Do not accept shrubs which have a poor root system. Instead, insist upon an abundance of fibrous roots. If the roots of some of the shrubs are too long and straggly for convenience in planting, then such roots can be pruned back.

Two Shy Annuals

This is the time of year to take inventory of your perennial and annual garden. Offset what disappointments you had this season by planning new and better things for next year. If you are not already acquainted with them, you'll enjoy knowing two rather shy annuals that should be better known by every flower lover. They are Torenia and Nigella. The former plant makes low, compact growth and can be used as a border plant. It is a dainty annual to use following a bulb planting which is not being lifted. Since Torenia's roots are shallow, it lends itself to such use. If you do not have this plant in your garden, sow the seed in a coldframe next Spring and when all danger of frost is past, set the plants outdoors and about six inches apart. Nigella is so named because the seeds it produces in an interesting seed-pod are black. Perhaps your grandmother knew this flower as Love-in-a-Mist and used it for cut flowers. It bears cornflower blue flowers on stems almost a foot long. There is also a white form, remembered and grown by some gardeners.

Small Bulbs

Small bulbs like snow-drops and crocuses ought to be really planted in irregular plots for the most pleasing effect in blossom time. The general effect then is much better than if they had been spaced in regular order when planted. Crocuses are not hard to grow and bulbs can be purchased from any dealer, and in a wide range of variety and color. They make a bright show in patches along roadways and under trees. They flower at different periods, too, although they have been called "harbingers of Spring."

Snow-drops, treated similarly when planted, will provide the best show in the Spring garden, state the experts. The grape hyacinth appears at its best when flourishing here and there in the rock garden, particularly along the base of rocks or wall.

Records Prove Comintern Not Dissolved

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (NANA).—Proof that the Russian Government had deceived the Allies in 1943 with assertions that the Comintern had been dissolved, is contained in the records of the Canadian Royal Commission's report on Communist espionage in North America, a thorough check has revealed.

Documents seized from Russian agents during the atomic bomb trials in Canada establish irrefutably that the Kremlin-directed international spy ring functioned directly under the Politburo throughout the war. This proof gives the lie direct to Red assertions of "reviving" the Comintern, as announced recently by Communist leaders from nine European nations.

At the time the Russian Government allegedly abolished the Comintern, United States officials from the President down praised the Communists for "this democratic step." The Russians watched the United States and British Governments swallow the bait, and played to the hilt the opportunity afforded to them by the diplomatic gullibility.

Igor Sergeivitch Gouzenko, the code clerk in the Russian Embassy in Canada, after fleeing the Reds sent to apprehend him, informed the Royal Commission that "the announcement of the dissolution of the Comintern was probably the greatest force of the Communists in recent years."

He told the startled Canadians, to whom he fled with coded documents from Moscow directing spying in Canada and the United States, that "actually the Comintern exists and continues its work, because the Soviet leaders have never relinquished the idea of establishing a Communist dictatorship throughout the world."

Gouzenko furnished documentary proof to bear out his assertions. He added that "it is clear that the Communist party in democratic countries has changed long ago from a political party, into an agency net of the Soviet Government, into a fifth column in these countries to meet a war."

The Comintern was and is the brain of the Red revolutionary effort, backed by the Red Army, and financed on a global basis by the Kremlin. American intelligence reports always have shown skepticism over the widely touted "dissolution" of the Comintern.

German Resort Way Station Of Young Jews

LINDENFELS, Germany, Oct. 25 (AP)—This little mountain resort has become a way station for Jewish children on the underground railway to Palestine.

Here nearly 200 Jewish orphans nine to 16 years old are living in a special displaced persons camp called a "children's centre."

There have been as many as 350 children here.

"Where are these missing ones?" I asked Eliezer Rabinowitz, a representative of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, which acts as a volunteer relief agency in helping the International Refugee Organization administer the camp.

"They have gone to Palestine," Rabinowitz answered, with an air of quiet triumph. "The rest of these children here are going to Palestine too, soon."

"With permits to enter Palestine?" I asked.

"With or without," he answered.

It obviously is a well-organized migration. Rabinowitz said they go in small groups, about 130 at a time, the oldest and strongest going first.

How they get to Palestine he would not say.

On the wall of one boy's room was pasted a newspaper picture of the Exodus refugees being landed in Hamburg.

"On the way," read the picture's caption, reiterating the Jewish determination to reach Palestine despite "temporary" setbacks.

"Jackpot" Brings Multitude Of Queries—But No Winner

This Week's Radio

N.B.C.'s "Take It or Leave It" program had a bit of an anti-climax recently. Originating in Chicago, it was cut off the air before quizman Garry Moore had time to announce result of the $612 jackpot query.

It seemed half America started telephoning to hear Moore's pronouncement. Chicago relayed a frantic call to New York and asked the city to air the result on the program which followed.

Announcer David Ross came before the mike and said the jackpot was still safe, no one had won it!

Fred Astaire has been asked to take over, and naturally it didn't take much coaxing.

The B.B.C.'s youngest brainchild, its highbrow Third Program, has started its second year while listeners dispute whether the prodigy should be permitted to live.

Created to give radio audiences aesthetic relief from swing, vaudeville patter and other frivolities, it renounces time-tables and popular taste. Its allotted five hours nightly are filled with highly serious music, full-length plays, scholarly talks and other eccentric features appealing to the higher sensibilities.

The Third Program has been a mark for comedians' parodies and critical satire and not long ago provoked George Bernard Shaw to ask for a "public inquiry into the mental condition of the B.B.C."

Their ability to foretell the future has a profound effect on their friend Mr. Mergenthwirker, who is unable to see them. Complicating the plot will be a newspaperman who puts their predictions to selfish work.

AN EXPLANATION

Sir,—With reference to the recent letters published by you concerning the shooting of black bear cubs, I would like to point out that the Government pays a bounty for large and small black bears.

Black bear cubs one year old are ready to kill and are considered one of the worst enemies the interior cattlemen have.

The cattlemen and farmers of the interior pay a further bounty in addition to that paid by the Provincial Government, for killing black bears and cubs.

This may prove interesting to your readers and to those who see fit to find fault without knowing facts.

McMillan Party Finds Wild Animals Almost Too Abundant at New Camp

(This is the seventh in a series of weekly reports on the McMillan Safari in British East Africa.)

By WILLIAM G. McMILLAN
North American Newspaper Alliance

TARBO RIVER CAMP, MASAI COUNTRY, Kenya, Oct. 25 (By Air Mail)—It is late by camp life standards as I write this, for we are up each day at 5 a.m. and tomorrow we will be out all day if the heavy rain slacks up a bit.

By all odds this is the wildest camp we have struck so far—and it is the first in which the family is whole, Mrs. McMillan having joined us after recovering from sickness in Nairobi. Coming here from the last camp, we had to cross a small river at a rocky waterfall. As we approached on foot to size up the situation, a great python slipped into the water in front of us, while a giant lizard scurried to safety among the rocks. Down river a little way, crocodiles lumbered into the water when they heard our voices.

We pitched this camp at a spot where elephant, rhino, lion and buffalo had recently visited. The 13 safari boys set to work on the thick undergrowth with axes and pangas to clear a large area for the tents. A call of "Snake" while this was going on sent me to a shallow burrow at the bottom of which I could see a large python—very annoyed. Nyemu, my gun bearer, decided that action was called for. When the dust of the shotgun blast had cleared, we found that the non-venomous "python" was a deadly poisonous cobra—now very dead, thank goodness—more than seven and a half feet long.

The country is literally infested with game. Before breakfasting camp on the Mara River we managed to get some extraordinary film shots of thousands upon thousands of migrating animals charging past our concealed blind — wildebeest, zebra, giraffe, topi, impalla thundering past for over half an hour. Throughout the night, the howls of lion, leopard and hyena served as a constant reminder to all never to stroll far from camp without a gun nor to leave the tent at night without a light. Each night the gun bearers place a loaded rifle next to each cot.

One day we were skirting the edge of a heavily-wooded donga when two beautiful lionesses and a half-grown cub were spotted standing majestically against a verdant background, eyeing a herd of grazing zebra. When they saw the approaching car they turned in our direction and forgot for the moment their planned zebra meal.

The car drew slowly up to within 40 feet of the trio as they crouched in knee-high grass. I started immediately taking pictures. In the meantime, in an effort to manipulate the camera, I had rested my left foot on the running board of the open-sided car. The lionesses showed interest in the whir of the camera, but showed no disposition to retreat to the nearby cover.

Presently one lioness decided she would have a better look at the car, got up and walked directly toward us. Donald Ker, our white hunter, had admonished us many times to make all movements slow and deliberate when in the presence of lions. I could imagine the crunching of leg and thigh bones as the lioness came steadily on to 20 feet.

All theories of slow and deliberate movements in the presence of lions with unknown designs were immediately exploded. Jerking in my only left foot from the running board did not seem to affect her in the least. I was somewhat relieved of a paralyzing tension when she took another step or two, veered her course slightly, and crouched in the grass facing directly into the camera.

The others likewise moved up closer, the curious cub taking a lesson in safety and manners from its mother by walking behind her. I hope the results are as interesting as was the 20 minutes of filming.

Bill Jr. has killed a magnificent cape buffalo and several fine antelope trophies, while each of us have been fortunate in bagging big leopards. Frances has shown the safari how to stop an animal in his tracks by shooting a hyena through the brain with the .30 calibre rifle.

Bill Jr. displayed some fine snap shooting on another leopard when the animal was making for the heavy forest after a night of stalking his prey on the open plains. At the report of the rifle there was a momentary glimpse of a thrashing leopard and a violent shaking of grass and small bushes. Then all was quiet.

The hunters, with gun bearers carrying extra rifles, approached the edge of the forest with the greatest caution. A stick tossed into the mass of twisted vines, bushes and trees brought forth a terrific and blood chilling growl about ten yards away. Another tossed stick indicated the quarry was going deeper into the forest.

We stooped and twisted along the waist-high game trails, Donald leading the way and carrying a shotgun loaded with buck shot. Suddenly there was a defiant and paralysing growl, too near for comfort.

A fleeting glimpse of the leopard drew quick and accurate fire from Donald's gun and all was still except our pounding hearts.

The safari boys in camp heralded the death of their chief enemy with waving branches, improvised drums and fantastic body contortions.

Along with other shortages that are gradually coming to an end in these postwar days is the scarcity of the chorus girl. But though she is returning, more beautiful than ever, like other scarce items she is more expensive.

Authority is Eddie Cantor, who speaks as producer and co-star of Joan Davis in R.K.O.'s "If You Knew Susie."

Fewer musicals were made during the war years and so the movie chorus girl became all but extinct, Eddie explains. Now, however, the beauties are back and in his sparkling comedy.

"Any one of the girls in my show is beautiful enough to have been in the front line of any of the great Ziegfeld shows," Eddie says. "Yet today's chorus girl, considering her combination of beauty, personality, talent, and intelligence, has reached a peak of perfection beyond that of a Ziegfeld girl.

"But we are paying for the beauty and brains combination, too. Not many years ago top wages for chorus girls was $50 a week, but now they are getting $50 a day."

The size of the girls has changed, also. The Ziegfeld girl was often "half-pint size." Today, the girl who lands a movie chorus job must be around five feet seven inches tall and slim.

Edgar Bergen has been trying for 20 years to prove that he is a competent, straight actor and that is why he is working in the film "I Remember Mama" without Charlie McCarthy.

"It isn't that I dislike working with Charlie," Bergen says, "for laughter is my business and Charlie is a wonderful tool for my profession. But I would like to prove that Edgar Bergen can act as well as ventriloquise. I hope this picture will start a new career for me. Charlie hopes so, too. He says it is about time I started supporting myself."

Edgar Rice Burroughs wrote his first Tarzan book, "Tarzan and the Apes," on odd bits of paper while carrying on his job of peddling pencil sharpeners. The book was published in 1914. Latest in the movie series is "Tarzan and the Mermaids."

Dolores Del Rio would rather be a bad girl—on the screen, that is—than anything else.

She is a girl who strays from the straight and narrow in "Fugitive," in which she co-stars with Henry Fonda. She claims if she had her own way those are the only roles she would play.

"It takes a good actress to play a bad girl," Dolores explains. "Bad girl roles are always good acting parts which, of course, are the goal of all actresses."

Dolores' naughty girl roles have fallen into two types: the girl who is bad because she wants to be bad and the one who is bad because of circumstances. The latter is the one most popular with women, she says.

Bette Davis, Susan Hayward, Joan Fontaine, Claire Trevor, Ida Lupino and numerous others share Dolores' interest in playing bad girl roles because they know professional success is built on such parts, whereas too many saccharine characterizations can stymie a career.

If Shirley Temple's baby, due to arrive in February, wants to become an actor she'll do everything she can to help him (or her) realize that ambition.

Neither Shirley nor her husband, John Agar, who makes his screen debut with her in "War Party," an R.K.O. release, side with stars who do not want their children to follow an acting career.

"The important thing in our baby's life will be its own preference," Shirley says. "Jack and I will be in favor of anything it wants to do. I don't believe that going into pictures as a child would hurt our child any more than it did me."

In the midst of murdering his first woman in "The Unsuspected" at Warner Bros., Claude Rains was interrupted by Director Michael Curtiz, who wanted to know if Mr. Rains couldn't perform the deed in a more charming manner.

CLAUDE RAINS

"Do it more sleekly, more suavely, more delicately, if you know what I mean," said Curtiz.

Mr. Rains replied that he couldn't do it that way.

"I gave up being charming at least 20 years ago," he explained, "because of the sarcasm of a certain celebrated gentleman known as George Bernard Shaw."

The villainous Rains then went on to recount how the meatless miracle man had chanced to see an obscure London play, in which the actor portrayed a charming young aviator.

Days later, the actor received a penny postal card on which these words were written:

"My dear Mr. Rains. Must you be so cha-a-a-a-arming? Sincerely, G.B.S."

"And so?" queried Curtis.

"That cured me," said Rains. "I'll never be cha-a-a-arming again, not even to add zest to a killing."

Silverware Stolen By House Thieves

Thieves broke into the home of E. Creed, 2534 Wark Street, early Friday night and escaped with Old Country silverware valued at $150, a camera, and a souvenir brass ship's clock, according to city police.

Police said the thieves gained entrance through an open window.

Amusing Mystery Stars George Brent

Since much of the action of Columbia's "The Corpse Came C.O.D.," amusing mystery which opens tomorrow at the Atlas Theatre, takes place in a film studio, portions of the Columbia lot were camouflaged for these scenes and became the home of Palisades Pictures. George Brent and Joan Blondell are starred, while Adele Jergens, Jim Bannon and Leslie Brooks play the principal supporting roles in the picture based on Jimmy Starr's novel of the same name.

Amusements

ON THE SCREEN

Atlas — "The Corpse Came C.O.D.", starring George Brent and Joan Blondell.

Capitol—Shirley Temple and Franchot Tone in "Honeymoon."

Royal—Betty Grable and Dan Dailey in "Mother Wore Tights."

Human Story of Vaudeville Life

In "Mother Wore Tights," the new Technicolor production which opens tomorrow at the Royal Theatre, starring Betty Grable and introducing a sensational new dance personality in Dan Dailey, Hollywood is being forced to re-examine the classification system it has generally used in describing its products. Twentieth Century-Fox is calling this one a story-with-music — and for very good reasons.

A warmly human story, it recounts the happy marital adventures of Betty and Dan Dailey, the studio's new dancing star, who combine a fairly successful hoofing career with the raising of two children played by Connie Marshall and Mona Freeman.

Maureen O'Hara In Musical Hit

Local movie-goers are in for as merry a musical funfest as ever rainbowed across a theatre screen when "Do You Love Me," 20th Century-Fox's gay, song-splashed Technicolor musical hit starring Maureen O'Hara, Dick Haymes and Harry James opens tomorrow at the Rio Theatre. Produced and directed by two of the entertainment world's most famous names—George Jessel and Gregory Ratoff, and flooded with the tuneful brilliance of four new, sure-fire song hits, "Do You Love Me" is being jubilantly acclaimed as a rare and exhilarating musical treat.

'Fun on Week-End' With E. Bracken

Reverse of the clown who wanted to play "Hamlet" is Eddie Bracken, currently starring with Priscilla Lane in the delightful Andrew Stone comedy, "Fun on a Week-End," which comes to the Plaza Theatre tomorrow through United Artists release. Eddie's self-confessed mission to make people laugh is a complete about-face from his original successes as a singer of sentimental songs, with a stranglehold on the public's tear ducts.

Hilarious Comedy In Mexico City

An American diplomat's troubles in arranging the marriage of two young compatriots in Mexico motivate R.K.O. Radio's hilarious new comedy - romance, "Honeymoon," now at the Capitol Theatre. Starring Shirley Temple, Franchot Tone and Guy Madison, the film presents Tone as the general fixer in the Mexico City consulate, and Miss Temple and Madison as the matrimonially-bound youngsters. Madison, a soldier, has only a brief leave from his post in the Canal Zone, but his fiancee's impetuous methods get them both into hot water with the Mexican officials, and delays the ceremony.

Realistic Problems On York Screen

A dramatic story calculated to shock the public into the awareness of the alarming rise in juvenile delinquency will be the new screen fare presented at the York Theatre tomorrow with a midnight showing tonight. The film is "Crime School," a Warner Bros. re-release that sets forth vividly and realistically the problem of reforming erring boys into useful members of a community.

Featured are Humphrey Bogart, the "Dead End" Kids and Gale Page. Lewis Seiler directed from the screen play written by Crane Wilbur and Vincent Sherman.

SUNDERLAND, England (CP). — Eleven pearls—one of which will be mounted in her engagement ring—were found in a tin of Norwegian sandwich spread bought by Helena Angliss.

Queer Undersea Mollusc Has Tail Light, Umbrella

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 25 (NANA).—A coal-black, red-eyed, luminous creature like an octopus, carrying a black "umbrella" many times bigger than itself, with two big, brown tail lamps equipped with blue blinkers—a 200,000,000-year-old living fossil, altogether about the queerest creature found in this generation, has just been described for the first time at the Bingham Oceanographic Laboratory here.

It differs so markedly from anything else in the world today that it has been classified as a distinct zoological order—a mollusc vaguely related to both squid and octopus but still far removed from either. Its nearest relatives are fossils found in rocks in Germany dating from the time of the dinosaurs.

Because of its weird appearance it has been appropriately-named "Venpyroteuthis Infernalis," the "vampire squid of hell."

It is a creature of ocean's sub-abysmal depths, ranging down to nearly two miles and never ascending to more than half a mile below the surface. Apparently it is found in all the oceans except the Arctic and Antarctic.

It probably is a fierce predacious animal. But nothing actually is known of its ways of life. It passes its existence in perpetual darkness. At best, only a barely perceptible green light penetrates the great depths.

Only four or five living specimens ever have been seen. There are about 100 specimens in biological museums of the world. The creature had attracted little attention until the present study being conducted by Miss Grace Pickford of the Bingham Laboratory staff.

Like most creatures of the great depths, it is self-luminous. Its body is covered with light-producing organs. Its ten tentacles are joined by a black membrane so that, when extended, they have the appearance of an umbrella turned inside out. The animal's body—about four inches long—is behind or under this umbrella.

Exactly in the centre is its hard, powerful, parrot-like beak. At each side of the head are the bright red eyes. Apparently the black umbrella is spread out when the luminous creature approaches its prey, as a means of concealment. Unlike its relatives, it has no means of surrounding itself with a cloud of black, ink-like secretion.

The two tail lights have the general structure of eyes. They may be degenerate eyes. It apparently is able to change the color of the light from brown to red, to shut it off altogether by means of a single eyelid, or to give it a blue tinge by means of the blinkers with which the organ is equipped.

It swims backward by means of a jet-propulsion mechanism, common to this entire group of molluscs. Like the squid, it has ten tentacles. One of these is retractile, so that it can be used essentially as a hand.

Compared with the existing squid and octopus it is an extremely archaic creature, one of the few survivals of living things in earth over 200,000,000 years.

DEMANDS SHARE

WARSAW, Oct. 25 (AP).—A Foreign Ministry spokesman said today that Poland is demanding payment of some $134,000,000 in gold as her share of Nazi war loot now being distributed by a tri-partite commission in Brussels.

United States Treasury Ends Search for "Yellow Jack" Hero

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (NANA).—The Treasury has written finis to the most extraordinary chapter in the army's historic war against yellow fever, which began a half-century ago. The Secret Service recently ended a futile 18-year search for Pte. Wallace W. Forbes, 69, and pronounced him officially deceased.

Forbes was one of the 21 heroes who voluntarily submitted to yellow fever infection in General Walter Reed's epic battle against the dreaded scourge at the turn of the century.

A special $5,000 gold medal, that has been awaiting Forbes since 1929, will be awarded posthumously to his oldest surviving sister, 70-year-old Mrs. Myrtle S. Pool, of Hollywood, California. A total of $30,000 in accumulated pension, also awaiting Forbes, will be returned to the Treasury.

Forbes is listed on the Army's rolls in two totally different roles. He is on the Army Register's Roll of Honor as a recipient of the Walter Reed Yellow Fever Gold Medal. And he is in the files as a deserter. Forbes went A.W.O.L. from the Presidio in San Francisco in 1926, and has never been heard from since.

It was because of Forbes' heroism in the fight against yellow fever that the Secret Service has been seeking him since 1929.

All the survivors, except Forbes, were located and the awards made.

Forbes' trail led from San Francisco to Cuba, where it was reported he married a Cuban girl who bore him a daughter. His sisters told Secret Service men that Forbes never brought his wife to the U.S. and declared they know little concerning the marriage.

In 1935, General Douglas MacArthur, then Chief of Staff, recommended that Forbes be pardoned on charges of desertion in the hope that this would facilitate the search for him. But nothing came of MacArthur's proposal.

In 1941, a radio program publicizing missing claimants to estates, broadcast a description of Forbes. The program produced a number of claimants, but none was Forbes. A number of other clues and trails proved fruitless.

A native of Galesburg, Ill., Forbes fought in the Spanish-American War and remained on duty afterward at Columbia Barracks, near Havana. In 1900, when Walter Reed, then a major, called for volunteers for experiments to determine the cause and spread of yellow fever, Forbes was one of the first to come forward.

Bitten by an infected Anopheles mosquito, Forbes suffered an acute attack of "Yellow Jack." However, after a protracted illness he recovered. Afterward he left the Army for a while but re-enlisted, finally disappearing from the Presidio in 1926. On the army rolls, he was listed as a deserter.

But that will soon be remedied on the recommendation of Treasury Secretary John Snyder. He has asked the army to issue Forbes an honorable discharge—posthumously.

Avoiding Unnecessary Operations

By DR. J. B. WARREN

Until recently practically all cases where the cause of symptoms in abdomen could not be definitely known an opening was made in abdomen and examination made.

Today, a long needle is used by which fluids and semi-solids can be removed and examined. A needle is plunged into such parts as lungs, breast, prostrate gland and spinal column and tissue withdrawn, fixed with formaldehyde, sliced with thin sections and examined under the microscope.

THE LUCKY PENNY

The reader who requests the origin of "lucky pennies" asks also, "Can pocket pieces be anything but metal money?" With her second question she strikes at the very heart of the history of "lucky" coins and pocket charms. The answer is that they have been almost any and every object besides money whose size was appropriate for carrying on the person. The "good luck" charm goes back much farther than the first metal money known to us.

The pocket piece is only one branch of the time-honored tree of belief in the supernatural and in superstition, common with primitive peoples before recorded history, and, incidentally, carried on to this day by numerous tribes in the hinterlands of civilization. The first pocket pieces, or good luck charms, for the savage had no pocket in which to keep them, were the tooth or piece of bone of an animal or some hair or feathers or perhaps a figure modeled or carved of clay, wood or bone.

The purpose of such objects, sometimes hung about the neck, was not merely ornamental. They were sacred objects, invested with magic or supernatural powers by a system of religious beliefs. The word which describes such systems of belief for the anthropologist, who studies man from his beginnings, is fetishism—the worship of an object for its mystical powers.

In the hinterlands of Africa and Australia, there are still among the primitive tribes as many fetishes as the imagination of the different groups can produce. One tribe in Central Australia today makes fetish objects of stone or wood, oval or elongated, and carved with patterns which mean something to the initiated. Some have a hole at one end, and, with a string drawn through this, can be whirled so as to make a roaring noise. Also, the smallest can be worn around the neck.

The tribe in question calls these "lucky pieces" churinga. Every member of the group has a personal churinga, in which a dead spirit survives. To lose this is the worst misfortune that can befall a person.

And from the Samoans of the South Seas to some of our own American Indians, fetishism continues to be an important part of their culture, with the stature of religion. It is a rich and complicated subject, only touched on here as the origin of one of our modern customs—the pocket piece or lucky charm.

What our lucky penny retains is the idea of guardianship or protection, a source of good luck. What it has lost from its ultimate source in the primitive fetish is the spirit of worship which constituted an essential part of its significance.

Scots Show Power; Shut Out United

Dominion Champs Outclass Local Team To Win Crucial Soccer Fixture, 4-0

HOW THEY STAND

	W	L	D	GF	GA	Pts
St. Andrews	3	0	1	8	2	7
Victoria	2	2	0	12	8	4
St. Saviours	1	2	0	11	11	2
North Shore	2	2	1	12	12	5
Nanaimo	0	4	2	8	18	2

Yesterday's scores: St. Andrews 4, Victoria 0; North Shore 2, Nanaimo 1. Next game, Saturday: St. Saviours at St. Andrews.

Vancouver St. Andrews proved to the satisfaction of 1,800 Victoria soccer fans yesterday that they fully deserve the title of Dominion champions. Led by a brilliant half line, and aided by a pair of solid backs and a steady netminder, the Scots had little difficulty in blanking Victoria United, 4-0, in crucial Coast League match at Royal Athletic Park.

The loss practically eliminated United from first-half contention and put the winners on top with a good chance of finishing there.

United, which had given Victoria round-ball supporters high hopes of a possible championship with its display against North Shore here Thanksgiving Day, was a well-beaten club yesterday as the Dominion champions gave an object lesson in positional play.

With big Wes Henderson leading their sterling intermediate trio, the Saints showed more hustle and spirit than any Vancouver eleven this season. Their anticipation of Victoria passes always found them with a man in position to break up the play and made the Victoria forwards look bad.

While the winners did not show too much punch up front, their forwards proved to be opportunists. They scored twice in the first half when the United defence faltered, then added a pair of breakaway goals late in the second period to make the margin safer.

ATTACKS WEAK

Losers just could not organise any effective attack against the perfect defensive play of their opponents. United never gave up trying and went down scrapping but were weak at the inside positions and the half line did not display its usual form. Both Joe and Ab Travis had an off day.

Luck also figured in the final result. Near the end of the first half, Joe Robbins got in the clear near St Andrews' goal but was pushed off the ball. Referee George Barnes, who officiated with a too-lenient hand, failed to whistle the obvious penalty and awarded a corner kick instead. A goal at this time might have been the turning point.

Facing the difficult task of scoring three goals in the final 45 minutes, the Basmesmen were further handicapped by rain which began to fall at the intermission resulting in a slippery ball and treacherous footing.

St. Andrews opened up on the offensive and had their first goal at the three-minute mark after Lou Heppenstall had missed a chance for United. Tubby McLean, speedy little centre-forward who replaced Frank Ambler, was the marksman and defending backs were slow in tackling. Scots dominated play for the balance of the half and added their second counter at the 30-minute mark when Greig nipped in to boot the ball home after a Victoria back had missed a clearance.

Nip Sage came on for Ab Travis at the start of the second half as United attempted to find more punch. Later in the half, Gordie Perkins went in at left back with Alan Reside moving up to relieve Joe Travis, who had been having his troubles at left half.

OFFENSIVE FAILED

United attempted to go on a prolonged offensive but their best efforts could not pierce the defensive tactics of the Saints, who relaxed while the Victoria attack sputtered out, then went on the offensive late in the game to add their final goals, McLean and Dave Simpson doing the scoring.

Noel Morgan and George Forbes, again steady at centre half, were the pick of the losers. Every man on the winning eleven came through with a sound display of soccer. Henderson was probably the pick of the club while McLean proved to be an adequate replacement for Ambler. The little centre-forward is probably the fastest man at his position in the league and will need plenty of watching.

Line-ups:

St. Andrews—R. Newbold, Storness and Webber; Henderson, Glover and J. Newbold; Greig, Matheson, McLean, Greer and Goodheart. Spare: Simpson.

United—Moss, Druce and Reside, McMillan, Forbes and J. Travis, Anderson, Heppenstall, Robbins, A. Travis and Morgan. Spares—Sage, Perkins and Barnswell.

Reds Down Scrappy Nanaimo

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25 (CP)—North Shore Reds chalked up their second win of the season Saturday when they defeated Nanaimo 2-1 in a Coast Soccer League match at Callister Park here before some 500 fans, who turned up despite transportation difficulties.

The Coaltown crew, who earlier in the year had joined forces with Vancouver United of the V. and D. League, were augmented by four players from the intermediate ranks. Although they dropped a one-sided decision the score did not indicate the play.

Jack Raffle, in goal for the visitors, played an outstanding game and handled a slippery ball well. Bob Menzies, Bob Jansch and Albert Harding also turned in snappy performances.

However, the two outstanding stars for Nanaimo were right winger Jim Rice and his partner, Jack Scott. Both players gave the Reds defence plenty of trouble during the day and only lack of finish around the nets prevented a different story.

Frank Ambler scored the winners first marker when he planted John McKay's well placed corner kick past the outstretched arms of the Nanaimo guardian. The counter came after six minutes of play. Then at the 18-minute mark, Dave Brown put the Reds up 2-0 when he drove Ambler's pass into the net.

Nanaimo showed up well during the second half and scored a well-earned goal, although it came on a penalty kick, by Alvin Parks.

Reds' Left Winger Gordie Stewart put the game on ice when he potted in two goals in the space of a minute. Ambler concluded the scoring with less than a minute to go when he drove in Alec Catto's pass.

Wins Women's Golf

The silver division October medal competition for women members of Royal Colwood Golf Club was won by Mrs. H. T. Matson with 98-18—80. Honors in the bronze division were taken by Mrs. Alex Straith, who shot a 114-32—82.

Mrs. Matson also took the "A" class October par competition, one down while Mrs. H. L. Pocock captured "B" class honors by the same score.

Members of Colwood Golf Club Buy Control, Plan Changes

Members of Royal Colwood Golf Club assumed control of the club this week with the purchase of the majority of the stock, it was announced yesterday by President Alex Straith. The continuation of the club as a golf course and its transformation into a golf and country club was assured with the completion of the deal, Mr. Straith stated.

Members were given an option on the property and started negotiations for its purchase from the Colwood Land Company through their financial agent, George Randall, last July. Despite a bid from Vancouver racing interests for the property, members refused to deviate from their aim to assume control themselves.

The club will be called the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club and plans for transforming the property into a country club second to none in the Northwest will likely go into effect early next year. It is one of only two clubs in Canada—the other being in Ottawa—which has had the title of Royal bestowed upon it.

Members intend to modernize the clubhouse itself, with various improvements to the dining-hall and lounge necessitating an increase in staff. They hope to install an archery range, swimming pool, up-to-date tennis courts and other attributes of a first-class country club. The course itself will be brought back to its status of former years when it was considered one of the three best in North America.

Details of the plans will be presented at an extraordinary meeting of the members to be held shortly. Club officials have recently consulted with experts regarding the proposed new construction.

Mr. Straith also announced that a section of the property not occupied by the links will be turned into an attractive residential subdivision shortly.

The program calls for an increase in activities by members. A drive will be instituted to acquire a limited number of members who will be allowed to join without payment of initiation fees. The club has at present 450 members of all kinds.

A Hallowe'en dance and a New Year's Eve ball are two of the items on the extensive program being prepared.

Cowichan Bay Fishing Good

Reports from Cowichan Bay yesterday indicate that the annual coho run at the famed Up-Island fishing grounds is far from over. Boats out yesterday encountered considerable success and several came back with six or more fish. Some experienced anglers are predicting that the run this season will extend into November.

Among the best catches yesterday was the one made by Harold Beverick guide at Ordano's Boathouse, who brought in eight coho of ten pounds or more. Beverick's fish were all taken on an abalone spoon with two ounces of weight. A Parker and party, some of the numerous Seattle anglers who have been thronging to the bay, have brought in 33 big coho since Wednesday.

Best lure is still the blue and white fly although abalone spoons have also been proving successful. Most catches are over 12 pounds and all have been fresh run fish.

PLAN PLEBISCITE

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Authorization for a plebiscite to determine wishes of citizens regarding disposal of the city-owned market building here will be sought at the next session of the New Brunswick Legislature. The old structure will be either retained by the city or sold.

Canucks, Leafs Both Win

THE FORUM, Montreal, Oct. 26 (CP).—Montreal Canadiens made it two wins and two losses in the National Hockey League's early pace by defeating Boston Bruins, 5-0, tonight, and handing Goalie Bill Durnan a shutout, his first of the season.

Two quick penalties in the first period were costly to the Bruins who won at home Wednesday night, 3-1, against the Montrealers. With Clare Martin and Fernie Flaman off, Maurice Richard rattled in his first goal of the season, followed quickly by another from Elmer Lach.

From there on it was Canadiens' game in a struggle replete with action and 17 penalties, excluding a misconduct ten-minute penalty to Billy Taylor for handing out some fancy language to Referee Bill Chadwick who chased him for slashing.

Kenny Reardon counted for Canadiens in the second period on a pass from Murph Chamberlain, and Canadiens rammed in two more in the final, Chamberlain scoring on a pass from Quilty, and Doug Harvey, rookie defenceman, driving in a backhand for an unassisted goal.

Brimsek had little chance on the goals that beat him. Milt Schmidt and Don Gallinger, plus a dashing display by Pete Babando, were best for the Bruins, but the Canadiens' backchecking and steady defence gave Boston few close chances on Durnan who turned in his best performance of the young season.

SUMMARY

First Period — 1, Montreal, Richard (Blake, Lach), 3 38; 2, Montreal, Lach (Leger, Harvey), 4 12. Penalties: Martin, Flaman, Bouchard, Peters, Reardon, Babando, Richard.

Second Period — 3, Montreal, Reardon (Chamberlain), 2 12. Penalties: Taylor (major), Lucas (2), Smith, Babando, Schmidt (2), Chamberlain.

Third Period—4, Montreal, Chamberlain (Quilty), 12 31; 5, Montreal, Harvey, 17 53. Penalties: Harvey, Taylor (minor and ten-minute misconduct), Carse.

MAPLE LEAF GARDENS, Toronto, Oct. 26 (CP).—Toronto Maple Leafs came from behind tonight to crush Chicago Black Hawks 6-1 and move up into a first-place tie in the N.H.L. standings.

In a game featured most of the way by wide open play, the Leafs took over a commanding lead with four goals in the second period after they yielded one to Chicago in the first. Then they made victory more emphatic by rattling in one goal in the last period.

Winger Adam Brown tallied Chicago's goal.

The Toronto markers came from the sticks of Centre Ted Kennedy, Right Wing Bill Ezinicki, Defenceman Gus Mortson, Right Winger Howie Meeker and Forward Joe Klukay, who played a star role as a penalty killer in tonight's game.

Referee George Gravel, ruling with an iron hand, imposed 18 penalties, mostly for minor offences. Ten Leafs got the gate and eight Hawks. Penalties figured in four goals. Brown got his with the Leafs a man short. The Leafs got one during a Chicago penalty and two when they were shorthanded themselves.

SUMMARY

Second Period—2, Toronto, Kennedy (Lynn), 6 26; 3, Toronto, Ezinicki (Watson, Apps), 8 27; 4, Toronto, Morrison (N. Metz), 11 00; 5, Toronto, Meeker (Lynn, Kennedy), 14 21. Penalties: Boesch, Barilko, Thomas, Stanowski, Kaleta.

Service Team Wins Opening Rugby Match

The R.C.N.-R.C.A.F. College fifteen opened the intermediate Rugby season yesterday with a convincing 24-3 triumph over the Victoria College squad. The Cadets went over for six tries, three of which were converted, against a penalty kick for the Collegians.

In a second intermediate game, Oak Bay Wanderers edged the Royal Canadian Navy fifteen, 6-0.

Cadets opened the scoring in the first five minutes of play, with Knox falling on the ball after the powerful Service pack carried the ball over the line from a five-yard scrum. The try was not converted. Balsom made it 6-0 five minutes later, going over after taking a pass from Pratt as the latter was tackled after a 30-yard run.

Victoria College came back from the kick-off and dribbled to the three-yard line before being stopped by Morris. Penalty kick was awarded against the Service squad and Barnes split the uprights with a beautiful kick to leave the score at 6-3. The Cadet threes got away on a pretty 50-yard run five minutes from the half, with McBurney going over for a try which was converted by Tamowski.

Another pretty three-quarter run by the Cadets resulted in Miles going over for another major score early in the second half. Tamowski again made the convert to bring the score to 18-3.

'Y' Swimmers Take W.A.C. Into Camp

Victorians Start Season Impressively—Score 68-34 Victory—Al Patnik Classy

Coach Archie MacKinnon's Y.M.C.A. swimming team made its first 1947-48 start a winning one by a 68-34 margin over Ray Daughters' Washington Athletic Club team from Seattle in the first international swimming gala of the season held at the Crystal Garden last night.

Approximately 800 fans attended despite the current transportation strike, and were treated to some fine swimming. Times were not fast, but competition was keen with several finishes decided in the final strokes.

The Flying "Y" squad had a decided edge in the men's events, with Ray Daughters' team the better in the women's races. The locals took both medley relay events and the men's 200-yard freestyle relay, but dropped the women's 200-yard freestyle event to the Seattle team.

Eric Jubb, starting his first year as a senior, took the men's 100-yard freestyle and finished second in the 100-yard breaststroke behind Len Coverdale. Seattle's Dick Elliott appears to be a comer. He finished third behind Jubb and Gordie Lawrance in the 100-yard freestyle but led from start to finish in the 400-yard event to win with ease over Lawrance.

Junior events, for Y.M.C.A. members only, were interspersed with the inter-city races. Bob Abbott was a double winner in the boys under 13 races, taking both the 50-yard freestyle and the 50-yard backstroke events with ease.

K.V.'s took over undisputed position of top spot in the large senior "B" league last night as they racked up their third straight win by edging the previously unbeaten Brentwood Aces, 44-38, in the feature basketball game at Victoria High School. Eagles swamped the cellar-dwelling Chinese Students, 31-23, in another senior "B" tilt, and Canadian Legion trimmed Esquimalt A.A., 36-26 in the junior boys game which opened the card.

The K.V.'s-Brentwood game provided all the action that a game between two undefeated teams should, with first one team and then the other taking control of the game. Both teams were deadly on long shots.

Brentwood held a first-quarter lead, potting 10 points while Elmer Curtis, who led the scorers with 17 points, replied with all seven racked up by the K.V.'s. The Orange and Black romped away in the second period to swish the net for 17 points and held a lead of 24-16 at the half.

Brentwood Aces—R. Benn 8, W. Benn 6, Cruickshanks 14, McCorkall 8, J. Turner 2, Gower, W. Turner. Total, 38.

K.V.'s—Beere 6, O'Brien 10, Ferris 4, Munro, Curtis 17, Trace, Sanford 5, Lamont 2. Total, 44.

Pros Turn Simon-Pure In Ryder Cup Matches

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 25 (AP). — The top golf professionals of the United States and England will meet next week-end on the Portland Golf Club course for the seventh in the International Ryder Cup series.

It's a match, strangely in the best of amateur tradition. The pros get not a cent of prize money. For the 10 top Americans it involves a cross-country trip. For the Britons, it's a journey half-way around the world and weeks away from home. For "travel-weary pros," the only force strong enough to bring all this about is the amateur urge to win for their country.

The seriousness with which they regard the match is exemplified by Ben Hogan, the American captain. He showed up here ten days early and spent hours sharpening his iron game, although the matches will not start until Saturday.

BRITISH TEAM DUE

Most of the Americans will come in tomorrow, and by Tuesday, all participants are expected to be on hand.

For the British these are. Henry Cotton, captain, Arthur Lees, Max Faulkner, Fred Daly, Reg Horne, Jimmy Adams, Charley Ward, Sam King, Eric Green and Dai Rees

The Americans are Hogan, Byron Nelson, E. J. "Dutch" Harrison Herman Barron, Ed "Porky" Oliver, Herman Keiser, Lew Worsham, Jimmy Demaret, Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum.

The Americans hold a 4-2 edge in the series started in 1927 and played every second year through 1937. The war interrupted after that.

The play will last two days. Two-ball foursomes—four matches in all —will be played Saturday over 36 holes with a point for each match Eight match-play singles will follow the next day, again over a 36-hole route, with a point for each.

COURSE LENGTHENED

The course, a par 35-37—72 layout, has been lengthened, and, since the $10 000 Portland open in August, greenskeepers have been letting the rough close in on the fairways.

There is a strong chance the rolling course will be mist-shrouded to make the Britons feel at home The forecast for the next four days is for showers.

Hogan, however, doesn't feel that rain will handicap the Yanks

"It's really a better test when the ground isn't so hard." he said.

The only man who admittedly would be handicapped is sponsor Robert A. Hudson, food packer and sports enthusiast supreme, and he doesn't seem to care as long as the series is played.

For a while, it looked as if it would not be staged, but then Hudson stepped up, willing to gamble on a November gate The estimate is that by the time he has paid players' expenses, the tournament will have cost him $50,000 If it rains, he has the chance of a match in a wind tunnel of getting his money back.

Mustangs Lose

Steve Rynoski, Mustangs captain stood out in a losing cause, making some substantial gains in a swivel-hipped display.

Scribe Contends England Will Continue to Be Sports Power

By JACK SULLIVAN

LONDON, Oct 26 (CP) — Here's a good-natured trans-Atlantic boo to Vince Lunny, sports writer of The Montreal Standard It's passed on from Sports Editor Tony Thomas of London's Communist Daily Worker, who takes exception to Lunny's views on "What is wrong with British sport"

Thomas quotes Vince as writing that, (1) Unless class distinction is erased from sport, Britain may withdraw from international competition; (2) Playing the game will have to be discarded in favor of winning the game and (3) Even in cricket and soccer the British have yielded supremacy.

Then Thomas gives his own views He agrees there are "more than traces of class distinction" in some sports played in Britain, "but to say that, despite these handicaps, we are on the verge of giving up international sport is pure American propaganda"

SOCCER ON DECLINE?

"If anyone thinks our soccer is on the decline, tell that to Scotland In fact, just say that to any of the 80,000 and more who crowd the terraces at Ibrox Park and they'll tell you with heat and plenty of detail that no one foreign (or English club) side has ever beaten Glasgow Rangers on their own ground.

"And England holds a similar record as far as Continental teams are concerned"

Of cricket, Thomas says: "Australia and England have always tussled for the balance of power in the field . It ebbs and it flows, and if any guess is worth anything it is beginning to flow back to these shores

"The only sensible things you've said, Lunny-boy, is about class distinction, and the way things are moving in some factory circles nowadays we shall be seeing a new set-up in a few years It is one where a local sports club has its foundation in a factory or mine or steelworks and outstanding members are coached by trained men to take part in regional and national competitions, receiving their normal pay (and expenses) for lost time"

Upsets were the order in Eastern Canada football games today, but with the only team needing a victory to clinch a play-off position coming through in fine style, it didn't make any difference to the line-up for the post-season play-offs

Toronto Indians made sure of keeping the fourth and last berth in the Ontario Rugby Football Union by defeating the last-place Sarnia Imperials, 18-0, at Toronto, in their final scheduled game.

It was as well they won, because Windsor Rockets, just one point behind Indians in fifth place, made a mighty but vain attempt to overtake the Toronto team by upsetting the league-leading Hamilton Wildcats, hitherto unbeaten, 10-6, at Windsor

In the Big Four, the two teams that have clinched the two play-off spots both went down to defeat. The last-place Tigers clawed the Ottawa Rough Riders, 14-8, at Hamilton, while the Alouettes turned in a 17-10 victory at Montreal over Toronto Argonauts, who eliminated Alouettes from the play-offs last Saturday.

Argonauts remained one point behind Ottawa in the standings, with the two to meet twice more in the regular season before starting home-and-home play-offs.

In the third O.R.F.U. game, Toronto Balmy Beach defeated the Trojans, 10-8, at Ottawa, With one Saturday left in the regular schedule, these two will meet in one bracket on the league's sudden-death semi-finals, while Hamilton and Indians will clash in the other

In the East's intercollegiate circuit, which doesn't challenge for the Grey Cup, Western Mustangs steam-rollered to a 50-3 victory over Queens at London, Ont., for their third straight victory. Toronto Varsity held second place by whipping McGill, 26-0, at Toronto.

Oak Bay Eleven Edges Out Win

HOW THEY STAND

	W.	L.	D.	F.	A.	P.
Canadian Legion	1	0	2	5	2	0
Oak Bay	1	1	0	7	7	0
Victoria West	0	0	1	1	1	1
Esquimalt	0	1	1	0	4	1

A sustained second-half offensive earned Oak Bay a hard-won 3-2 victory yesterday over a shifty Esquimalt eleven in a spirited Victoria and District Football League contest at Windsor Park. Each team scored once in the initial half.

Elmer Hodder first-timed Denny Shubrooke's cross past Dave Paterson to give the Dockyarders a lead that they held until just before the interval Don Robinson set up Stan Wiseman for the equalizer Both teams played fast-moving ball with Esquimalt holding the edge in territorial play during the first half. Both Doug Foreman in the Esquimalt nets and Paterson in the Oak Bay citadel came up with brilliant saves that held the score down.

Alan "Rookie" Wright presented Esquimalt with their second tally when, in trying to push the ball back to Paterson for a clearance, he drove the sphere past his own netminder. Wright came roaring back a few plays later to nod Don Robinson's corner into the Esquimalt nets to knot the count again.

Oak Bay maintained the pressure during the final fifteen minutes and came close repeatedly. Finally Alan Thompson and Stan Wiseman combined to send the ball goalwards, where Dick Donaghy had the misfortune to deflect the winning tally into his own goal.

Esquimalt presented a revamped line-up that promises future strength. Ken Druce played well at centre half, while the right wing combination of Art Young and Shubrooke was always dangerous For Oak Bay the entire defence worked well as a unit, with Doug Laird, Ken Wright and Bill Stewart performing well Joe Dbee handled the whistle capably.

Oak Bay—Paterson; E Wright, Laird; Walker, A Wright and Stewart Robinson, Ferguson, Wiseman, Wakelyn and A. Thompson Subs: J. Thompson, J. Meadley, D Watson, N Swatnson.

Esquimalt — Foreman; Thatcher and Youlden, Jenkins, K Druce and Donaghy; Shubrook, A Young Boyd, G Hayward and Hodder Sub W. Walker.

Victorian Lucky Ticket Holder

At least one Victorian has been lucky enough to have a horse drawn in the Irish Sweepstake—and he has found many willing to share his good fortune

Doug Irvine learned yesterday that his sweepstake ticket had been drawn on Wild Child, a 26-1 shot. Within a few hours of learning this, Irvine had ten offers from people wishing to "buy in" on his ticket.

The quality that is Hartt's is borne of experience: the Hartt shoemakers never have made other than quality shoes, in all of their 48 years.

TOAST and TEA
BY J. V. McAREE

JOHN Stuart Mill is always worth reading, especially when discussing his favorite theme—Liberty. He wrote, "Strange it is that men should admit the validity of the arguments for free discussion, but object to their being 'pushed to an extreme'; not seeing that unless the reasons are good for an extreme case they are not good for any case Strange that they should imagine that they are not assuming infallibility, when they acknowledge that there should be free discussion on all subjects which can possibly be doubtful, but think that some particular principle or doctrine should be forbidden to be unquestioned because it is so certain, that is, because they are certain that it is certain. To call any proposition certain while there is anyone who would deny its certainty if permitted, is to assume that we ourselves, and those who agree with us, are the judges of certainty, and judges without hearing the other side"

Army in Stunning Loss

NEW YORK, Oct 25 (AP) — A dauntless band of Columbia Lions scored one of the most stunning upsets of gridiron history today when they sent Army's eleven tumbling into defeat, 21-20, with a spectacular passing attack which scored two touchdowns in the final period and brought gasps from an incredulous crowd of 35,000.

Unbeaten in their last 32 games and unscored upon previously this year, the Black Knights from West Point found themselves helpless to stem the Light Blue once Gene Rossides, Columbia's brilliant quarterback, began throwing bulls-eyes to an equally brilliant receiver, End Bill Swiacki

Arsenal Runs Streak To 13 Straight Wins

LONDON, Oct. 26 (Reuters). — Undefeated Arsenal, first division leaders, stretched their string to 13 games by battling Everton to a 1-1 deadlock today to equal a 26-year-old English Football League record.

The mark was set in 1919 by Tottenham Hotspurs who went through their first 12 matches without a loss.

Before a crowd of 60,000 Arsenal played a fast dazzling game bolstered by the return of their two regular backs, Laurie Scott and Willie Barnes. Both players were missing from the Arsenal line-up last week when they played in a soccer international game between Wales and England.

Everton came from behind to knot the count nine minutes before the close of play.

Preston North End retained the runner-up spot in the division by drawing with lowly Sunderland 2-2 and Blackpool, although beaten by Bolton Wanderers 1-0, were in third place.

The Scottish League Cup match drew a crowd of 65,000 to Hampden Park where East Fife and Falkirk fought a scoreless tie, after extra time had been allowed. Both teams will meet again next Saturday.

Burnley, now in fourth place, played a 1-1 tie with Manchester City. Charlton Athletic, the cup holders, defeated Chelsea 2-1 in a fierce game before 60,000 fans.

Attendance at matches played in the United Kingdom again topped the 1,000,000-mark and fans through the southern area of Britain were favored with brilliant sunshine.

West Bromwich Albion held a one-point lead in the second division although beaten by West Ham United 2-1. Birmingham City who scored a 2-0 victory over Bury held second place with 20 points.

In the southern section of the third division Queens Park Rangers were the leaders although beaten by Ipswich Town 1-0. Watford snapped Bristol City's six-game winning streak with a 2-1 decision. The loss dropped Bristol City into a three-way tie for second place with Walsall and Ipswich City.

Three clubs moved into a first-place tie in northern section of the third division. They were Wrexham who defeated Carlisle United 2-1; Accrington Stanley, 1-0 victors over Tranmere Rovers; and Rotherham United who vanquished Barrow 3-1.

Lincoln City, who lost to Oldham Athletic 2-0, and Hull City, defeated by Darlington 3-0, share second place.

The joint leaders in the "A" division of the Scottish League still are Partick Thistle and Motherwell, each with 14 points. Partick defeated Aberdeen 2-1 while Motherwell beat Clyde 4-1.

In division "B" Albion Rovers outlasted St. Johnstone 2-2 to retain first place. Kilmarnock who defeated Dunfermline Athletic 3-0 share second place with Cowdenbeath, 6-2 winners over Dundee United.

Sweepstake Hope Fades Into Gloom

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP).—That letdown feeling which comes when a horse fades in the stretch to finish last was felt today by Bernie Trepainier, 32-year-old hotel waiter—he doesn't hold a sweepstake ticket on the Cambridgeshire after all.

Looking over a list of tickets drawn on the race to be run October 29, he spotted a number he believed to be the one he had purchased. He telephoned his wife and by some mysterious calculation she came up with DC 58974, which made him the holder of a ticket on Fine Prospect, one of the 46 horses entered in the Cambridgeshire.

But the prospect wasn't so fine. He rechecked the ticket when he returned home and found his wife had erred.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Approximately 40 'teen-age girls and their beaux attended the sub-deb club party held at the Y W C A on Friday evening, at which dancing and games were featured.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with Hallowe'en motifs and the committee in charge of the decorations were Lorraine Rowan and Jean McKay. The committee in charge of refreshments consisted of Iola Gordon, Gloria Bennett and Marion Kerr, while Miss J. Fleming, Thelma McNaught and Marion Rutch were in charge of entertainment.

She Had to Be Good

FOUR years ago Lyndall Nott could not skate any better than average 15-year-old. She lived in Canberra, Australia, where there is no skating rink. But Lyndall became interested in figure skating, started going to Sydney on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays to practise on rink there. Now 19 years old, she has been signed as member of skating show touring United States. To receive offer from ice show she had to win many Australian competitions.

Cambridgeshire Field Sliced; Canadian Horse Rates Chance

LONDON, Oct. 25 (CP)—Thousands of Canadians who annually stake the price of an Irish sweepstake ticket, $2.50, on the century-old Cambridgeshire in a bid to reap a golden harvest will know the outcome of the gamble next Wednesday.

The field for this mile-and-a-furlong race at New market has been cut already from 150 horses to 46 and probably will be trimmed some more before post time.

Sentimentalists in the Dominion will follow closely Toronto, beaten by a head for second spot last year. The four-year-old, named simply as a gesture to the Queen City by its first owner, J. A. Hurst, has plenty of classy opposition but still can't be disregarded. Hurst chose the name because he has a cousin, identity not known, living in Toronto.

Betting on the big Autumn handicap took a surprise turn Friday night when Mighty Maharatta, the Gaekwar of Baroda's colt, went from 95 to 20 to 11 to 2 at the Victoria Club call-over. Claro, which placed second in 1946, was second favorite at 100 to 9 odds and Toronto was well down the list at 50 to 1.

The Victoria Club, centre of big race ante-post betting, took an unprecedented action by imposing an information blackout at last night's call-over for the Cambridgeshire, on which betting has been exceptionally heavy. All horses were backed to win substantial amounts but it was decided not to announce the amounts.

Chicago Hawks Have Trouble Rebuilding

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP).—One of the queer workings of big-time hockey whereby a player of major league calibre can wilt in the minors till he trips over his beard, was exemplified today as Coach Johnny Gottselig told of his troubles in efforts to rebuild Chicago Black Hawks, National League doormats.

With all six N.H.L. clubs basking in the sun of prosperity, they are not inclined to the lure of gold for farmhands, and as the Hawks have little to offer in way of players, it seems as though things may get tougher and tougher for the tribesmen.

There are a number of minor league performers who Gottselig thinks would strengthen his club, but his N.H.L. rivals hold strings on all of them and to date they haven't shown any signs of loosening their grip, even as a favor to Johnny.

"Every time we try to make a deal, the owners want to trade, and what a trade!" said Gottselig. "It's either one of the Bentleys or Kaleta they want. All we have as trading bait are young lads and nobody is willing to gamble on them. There's at least half a dozen in the minors we could use but money won't buy them. They're down there on option from N.H.L. clubs and some will stay there until they are too old to come up."

Gottselig would like to obtain Hal Laycoe from the Buffalo Bisons to strengthen his wobbly defence but the youngster is the property of Montreal Canadiens. Another rear-guard in the minors whom Johnny would be quick to nab is Bob Goldham, now wearing a Pittsburgh Hornets' suit.

The Chicago coach was reminded that the World Champion Toronto Maple Leafs sent Goldham to Pittsburgh to recover from a broken arm but Johnny cracked: "We'll take him before he recovers and let him do the recovering with us."

Elwyn Morris, another Leaf farmhand with the Hornets, would be welcomed by Gottselig, who is also sweet on Sugar Jim Henry, the jumping-jack goalie the New York Rangers have blocking pucks for their New Haven Eagles farm club.

"Give me Laycoe, Morris or Goldham and I'd have a defence," said Gottselig.

His young goalie, Emile (The Cat) Francis, seems to have overcome the "fright" he showed in the short spell he served with the Hawks last Winter after jumping from Saskatchewan amateur ranks, "but I'd like to have Henry in the nets."

Juvenile Football

Jubilee Pharmacy shut out Vets of France, 3-0, in Second Division city juvenile soccer game yesterday featured by the smart goaltending of Ernie Erb of winners, who chalked up his second blanking in three games.

Pharmacy led 2-0 at the half with Peter Clothier and Jim Caldwell providing the markers. Art Dawe notched the last half counter. Quarter Cab scored a 2-0 victory over Esquimalt in the other Second Division game. Pacific Meat also scored a shutout in their Third Division fixture with Pacific Meat, triumphing 3-0.

Ray Leason tallied the winning goal as T.A.C. edged out St. Louis College, Fourth Division eleven. Balmoral Thistles triumphed over Esquimalt in the other Second Division game. Pacific Meat also scored a shutout in the Third Division fixture with Pacific Meat, triumphing 3-0.

Ray Leason tallied the winning goal as T.A.C. edged out St. Louis College Fouth Division eleven. Balmoral Thistles triumphed over Y M C A in a Fifth Division contest, 5-0, with Carey (2), Borde, Sage, Crobler and Wilson scoring.

A STATEMENT ON FEED PRICES AND THE POULTRY SITUATION

On October 21st the Federal Government removed subsidies on Feed Grains and Price Ceilings on Oats and Barley. As a public service Buckerfield's Limited presents herewith a comparative statement of Feed Costs and Egg Prices in recent years and some suggestions in present circumstances.

COMPARATIVE FEED COSTS 1941-1947

FEED	Basic Period Sept., 1941		Jan., 1947	Apr., 1947 (After removal	Oct. 21, 1947 Gov't. subsidies)	% increase Sept., '41 to Oct., '47
Wheat	$32.00	(These prices largely prevailed until Jan., '47, a period of 6½ years)	$32.00	$44.00	$54.00	68%
Scratch	40.00		36.00	48.00	59.00	47%
Laying Mash	51.00		49.00	52.00	61.00	19%
Breeders Mash	58.00		57.00	59.00	67.00	15%

NOTE: During the period 1941 - 1947 the Government policy of paying subsidies to increase egg production provided grains at prices much below world markets. Total subsidies including freight assistance (still in effect) approximated $14.33 on wheat, $16.47 on barley and $11.88 on oats.

The average increase in feed costs of Oct. 21, 1947 over Sept., 1941 is 30%

COMPARATIVE AVERAGE EGG PRICES 1940-47 (Grade A Eggs)

	Per Doz.		Per Doz.
1940	21c	1944	29½c
1941	25c	1945	33c
1942	31½c	1946	34½c
1943	35c

NOTE

Removal of subsidies has already resulted in an increase in feed costs. The removal of price ceilings on oats and barley, and its effect on allied products may be even more serious. A situation has developed that will require the closest cooperation of feed manufacturers, egg producers and the B. C. Poultry Industries Council.

THE DEMAND FOR EGGS CONTINUES STRONG!

Our contract with Britain, a rapidly increasing provincial population and heavy activity in camps and other basic industries, all provide an assured demand for our eggs. It is imperative in Britain's interests and our own that the British contract be filled. Therefore we suggest that you:

DO

1. Rigorously CULL every non-profitable bird. A 40% producer no longer pays her way.
2. Check up on OVERCROWDING, SANITATION, VENTILATION, etc., to avoid preventable losses.
3. Analyse your business to reduce as far as possible controllable expense.
4. Raise or purchase only the highest possible producing strains.

DON'T

1. Don't accept WITHOUT ANALYSIS any suggestion that your flock is not paying.
2. Don't economize on measures to keep your flock in production.
3. Don't change to "CHEAPER" grades of feed. The best is always cheapest.
4. DON'T SELL YOUR GOOD LAYERS.

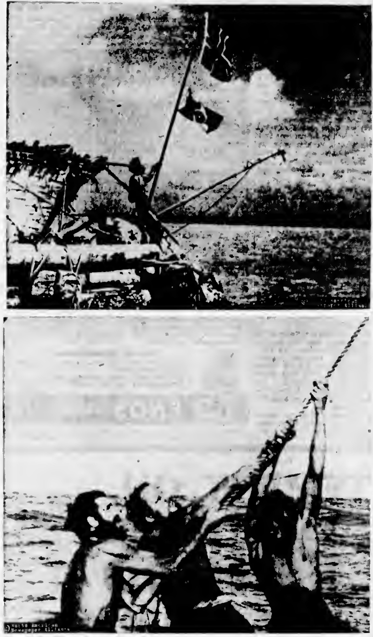
Flag of Norway Raised in Pacific



—NANA Photos.

Six young Norwegian scientist-adventurers completed recently three-month journey by raft from Peru to Polynesian islands, tracing route of vanished "leader" race of 1,500 years ago. Raft finally crashed on Raroia Reef in Tuamotu Archipeligo, then was swept into lagoon. At top, one of crew hoists flags carried on journey—that of Norway, above, and that of Explorers' Club of New York, beneath. Below, "somewhere in mid-Pacific," three of crew haul up great square sale that was raft's motive power.

Slices From Ocean Floor Tell Tale of Time's Early Minutes

By THOMAS R. HENRY
N.A.N.A. Science Editor

WOODS HOLE, Mass. Oct. 25—The story of another million years in the history of the oceans is being revealed by bottom samples obtained this Summer by the Swedish exploration schooner Albatross, sent out by the University of Gottenberg.

Hitherto, the longest samples of sea floor obtained have measured only about 15 feet. The crew of the Albatross is obtaining cores 66 feet long. This is the report of Dr. Fred B Phleger, of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution staff, who accompanied the ship during its investigations in the Caribbean. The expedition, under the command of the distinguished Swedish oceanographer, Dr Hans Petterson, has crossed the Atlantic several times during the past few months and has now sailed into the Pacific to continue its investigations.

The sea bottom is built up slowly through the centuries, largely by the debris of oceano-life which dies and sinks. The major element consists of foraminifera—almost invisible shell-covered organisms—which exist in vast numbers in all the oceans and form the essential base of the pyramid of sea life.

MANY SPECIES

There are a vast number of species, some of which can exist only in warm water while others are confined to cold water. The different types which predominate in different layers of the bottom cores, obtained by the Albatross, give a fairly accurate picture of the changing temperatures of the oceans through the millenniums.

The rate at which bottom sediments accumulate is known to a fair degree, so the long cores, obtained with a recently-invented exploding device, constitute a new kind of thermometer of the ages. They will be studied intensively when the Albatross returns to Sweden.

These cores are four times thicker than any others formerly gained. However, it is possible to study only an extremely thin layer of the sea bottom because the sediment, built up on basic rock, has a tremendous thickness. Until now, this thickness was unknown, but echo devices, operated with exploding TNT bombs from the Albatross as it cruised over the Atlantic, indicate that it ranges between 1,000 and 2,000 feet. A complete core would come close to telling the story of the oceans since the beginning of life.

The oceans, observations now indicate, have remained in about the same positions with roughly the same contours since the cooling of the earth. Only shore lines have changed through the geological ages. The great depths have remained constant. Life undoubtedly made its first appearance in the seas, so a complete sample of sea bottom presumably would tell the story of life from the beginning.

Unfortunately, it is unlikely that we ever will be able to reach this history-revealing sediment at the very bottom of the sea.

British Miners Will Not Reach Labor Party's Target for 1947

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AP)—British miners almost certainly will fail to produce the 200,000,000 tons of coal wanted by the Labor Government in 1947.

This conclusion, borne out by all statistics on hand, was confirmed recently by a spokesman for the Fuel Ministry who acknowledged:

"It is extremely doubtful that we will get enough coal to reach our target. Less than 12 weeks remain to close a gap of more than 52,000,000 tons, and 50,000,000 tons of it must come from deep mines, where production is slower."

Weekly production so far this year has averaged 3,691,975 tons, a figure which, if maintained even through the Christmas holidays, would leave the year's total output more than 8,000,000 tons short of the goal.

Nationalization of the mines and reduction of the work week from six to five days—the latter inaugurated last May—have not spurred production as Socialist planners hoped. Now the Government is demanding they work an additional half-hour a day or on alternate Saturdays (at overtime pay) to help make up the loss.

A draft agreement calling for the longer hours was accepted unanimously by a delegate conference of the National Union of Mineworkers on October 10, and submitted to the rank and file for approval. It is due to expire April 30.

Canadian imports from India totaled 30,000,000 dollars in 1943.

Milk Board, Province Adjust Prices in Line With Increase

Adjustment of milk product prices by the Provincial Government to conform with the recently announced increase to consumers was announced yesterday.

Set by the British Columbia Milk Board and approved by Provincial Government order in council, the new price schedules are: Standard milk, 17 cents for a quart, 9 cents for a pint and 5 cents for a half-pint; special milk, 16, 10 and 7; buttermilk, 14; skim milk, 14; chocolate-flavored dairy drink, 16, 10, 6; substandard cream, 30, 16, 10; table or sour cream, 70, 38, 18, and whipping cream, $1.10, 60 and 30.

For use of school pupils only, special rates are given to schools. They are 4 cents a half-pint for standard milk, 4½ cents a half-pint for standard milk, 4½ cents for special milk, and 4 cents for chocolate-flavored dairy drink.

The board also adjusted the area over which it will control milk prices for this district. After November 1 it will include all that portion of Vancouver Island which lies to the south of the southerly boundary of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway Co.'s land grant, together with the Saanich Peninsula, thus taking in the Sooke area.

Primary producers will receive two benefits under the new price schedules. Not only will the producer price of milk be increased, but also the differential for butterfat content of milk will be increased. While previously the differential had been 5 cents it will be 5½.

These two factors will result in increasing the price paid producers for 4.2 per cent butterfat milk—the average supplied the milk jobbers and distributors—from $4 per 100 pounds to $4.55½.

E. C. Carr, the milk controller, said that while the board recognized that the producers of milk in the Greater Victoria area faced some unfavorable conditions, "these conditions cannot always be corrected by adjusting retail prices."

"Every possible endeavor must be made by primary producers to increase their present production, and at the same time reduce existing costs to the lowest possible point," Mr. Carr said.

Heating System Urged for Pound

Lack of heating facilities in the city dog pound was the subject of a letter to the City Council Friday from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Over the signature of James Barr, president, the letter stated that the society had been receiving complaints for some time regarding the lack of heating.

"It is understood that the pound is washed out daily and during Winter months is in a continually wet condition," the letter stated. Suggested is the installation of an adequate heating arrangement "which will dry up this continual dampness and afford some degree of comfort to the dogs in the pound."

Town Planning Official Urges Definite Plan for Playgrounds

Absolute need for dedication of lots set aside for playground use, where such lots are shown to be suitable locations, was stressed at Friday night's meeting of the Town Planning Commission by M. K. Crockett, secretary.

Mr. Crockett has just returned from the National Conference on Community Planning held in Montreal.

The commission secretary said the West had little to learn from the East in the matter of provision of opportunities for out-of-door amusements and playgrounds.

He said a great deal of time was spent at the convention in discussing traffic control and traffic congestion in city centres. A suggestion was made to stagger hours of traffic, and provide mass transportation of a type that would encourage car owners to leave cars at home.

Reporting on the address by R. E. G. Davis, Mr. Crockett said the president warned that community planning in Canada would never be more than fragmentary as long as the three levels of Government failed to achieve agreement on their financial relations, and in particular to develop a working agreement on housing and planning.

Plan prepared by the city engineer for the proposed new layout of the Hillside Avenue-Douglas Street intersection was declared practical by the commission, but it was pointed out that improvements were needed.

It was decided to build a model of the plan before any recommendations were made. Plans call for the erection of an island at the intersection, which has been described as one of Victoria's most dangerous corners.

Cyril Jones, assistant city engineer, who submitted the project, said the main object of the island was to provide regular lanes which vehicles could follow.

"We want a plan which will keep traffic moving and will keep it in definite lanes," said Mr. Jones.

Minimum Wage Scale Changes Requested by Four Groups

Preliminary representations from employers and employees on revision of minimum wage scales for four groups were heard last week by the Board of Industrial Relations.

The groups were sheet metal workers, automobile maintenance workers, cashiers, doormen and usherettes and cleaners of theatres, and truck drivers.

Some action in the near future by the board is anticipated. Discussions were held in order to reduce the area of difference between employers and employees on what minimum wages should be.

James Thomson, deputy minister of labor and chairman of the board, indicated opportunity may be given the groups to make further representations. Mr. Thomson stressed that minimum wage scales will become more important in future times when wages are not so high. He emphasized the importance of minimum wages among employees who were not represented by any labor organization.

Infants to Grandparents All Benefit By Summer Days at Sunshine Camp

Sunshine Camp, which is financed by the Community Chest, provided a holiday for 443 people, comprising 188 adults and 255 children, during the 1947 season.

Sunshine Camp developments during the last two years have made it possible to invite larger and more varied groups to holiday at the beautiful Saseenos site.

Last season the camp played host to seven separate groups from June 11 to August 27. Several individuals, for numerous reasons, remained longer periods. One family of four children, for example, stayed with the staff members for three camps (32 days) because of the mother's illness. Each child benefited from the camp experience, as guided by the conscientious staff.

Small babies, girls and boys of all ages, mothers, grandmothers, grandfathers, and many physically-handicapped persons have attended the camp. Those attending have had almost every conceivable difference in interests, abilities and personalities, but all have experienced a happy period away from the worry and care of regular city life.

It is hoped in the future far greater numbers of people will be given the opportunity to enjoy the days at camp—people who otherwise could not afford a good holiday.

MOTHERS RELAX

The mothers' and children's camps proved to what extent mothers could relax and have good times together, gain rest and real enjoyment, while their small children were well supervised by interested, patient and enthusiastic staff members.

At one time, five young boys, each of whom had had difficulty in getting along with other children, were given the opportunity to live for ten days with children. During that time the boys learned, to varying degrees, that they could have fun with other boys and girls in cheerful companionship. Each gained a certain sense of worthiness and security. This development of ability to live co-operatively and happily with other human beings is an important aim of modern camping, in addition to the development of the individual camper within the group setting.

Officials say it is heartening to see the wonderful development manifested in the campers, as they participate at camp in hikes, swimming, handicraft, sing songs, and the many other activities. Both boy and girl and adult should have such an experience in Summer camping, community living in the outdoors. The physical, emotional and spiritual influences are manifold, as revealed in the free play as well as supervised and planned activities, in which individual participation is necessary and encouraged.

Boarders Face Rent Increase

Cost of board and room in Victoria will probably go up to keep pace with the rising cost of living, boarding house proprietors indicated last night.

Majority of boarding house operators said they will try to hold the price line if food prices do not go up, but if commodity prices continue to rise they "won't have any alternative but to raise the rent."

Price controls were removed yesterday from boarding houses where two or more meals are served daily. Vancouver real estate agents predicted that "bona fide" boarding house rents there will soar as much as 25 per cent.

Victoria operators are considering raising the rent to meet increased operating costs, it was learned.

Brentwood Zoning Plan Discussed by Residents

BRENTWOOD, Oct. 25—A well-attended meeting of property owners was held in the Women's Institute Hall at Brentwood on Friday night to consider terms and conditions of the zoning by-law for the Brentwood area. V. C. Dawson, who presided, welcomed Councillors W C. Kersey and L. H. Passmore, and F. S. Green, assessor, representing the Saanich Municipality.

Mr Dawson gave a resume of activities of the Brentwood zoning committee since it had compiled a zoning ordinance and handed it to the Saanich representatives at a public meeting on March 14 He stressed the value of having a zoning ordinance as a plan for the orderly development of an area along lines that would prevent haphazard building, thus aiding the preserving of property values.

Mr. Dawson then asked Mr Green to outline the Saanich Council's plan for the zoning of the various sections in the Brentwood area, and the meeting proceeded to discuss the matter Mr Green showed a plan outlining the area to be zoned which would be bounded by the West Saanich Road from Stelly's Crossroad to Benvenuto Avenue and the waterfront, and along the front to the Stelly's Crossroad and then to the West Saanich Road. Certain sections, especially both sides of the Beach Drive, and areas of Moodyville and in the vicinity of the Anchorage would be confined to single-family dwellings In other areas, dwellings, farming, including dairying, horticulture livestock and poultry, schools and churches would be allowed Setbacks from a building to the street line would vary from 25 to 50 feet, and minimum floor areas of buildings from 600 to 1,000 square feet.

Motions were passed by the meeting approving or amending the regulations for each section, and a decision was reached as to the sections to be zoned for commercial purposes, where a setback of ten feet would be observed

Mr. Dawson called for an expression from the meeting of its thanks to Councillor Kersey and Passmore and Mr Green for coming to the meeting, which was heartily endorsed. Mr. Green promised that the by-law would be speedily approved by the council, thus ending the period of uncertainty that had existed for everal months and hampered those wishing to start building

Refuse to Pay Saltair Taxes

SALTAIR, Oct 25 — Ratepayers gathered to hear a report from the chairman, A D Clelland, on the progress being made toward securing relief from unjust taxation. Briefs are being presented to the School Taxation Commission, and one from Saltair will be heard at Nanaimo on Monday It was the feeling of the meeting that a unified front should be maintained, and a resolution was passed that taxes should not be paid until the Government acted on recommendations of the Commission, but the way was left open for anyone wishing to pay taxes before delinquent date.

The secretary was instructed to write to Provincial Police to secure action on the curbing of speeding through the district, especially on the part of taxicabs

November 8 was fixed as the date for a sale of fruit canes and strawberry plants, and other superfluities Tea will be served during the afternoon.

T Archbold officiating

Picks Strawberries At Campbell River

CAMPBELL RIVER, Oct. 25—Other portions of Vancouver Island lay claim to lying within the mythical "banana belt," so Campbell River feels that it should join the parade L. Turner picked a box of British Sovereign strawberries this week, and presented them to Mr. and Mrs William McNeill, who pronounced them as good as any grown during the Summer.

Boat Tragedy Victim Buried

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 25. — The late Michael Halliday, one of the victims of a quadruple drowning off Ucluelet on October 12, was buried in Port Alberni at a private ceremony. William Halliday, his father, came from Winnipeg to attend the funeral. Mr. Halliday is also survived by two brothers and three sisters in the East.

MICHAEL HALLIDAY

Members of the Canadian Legion acted as pallbearers and arrangements were in the hands of the Mountain View Funeral Home, with interment at Greenwood Cemetery

Mr. Halliday lost his life when he, Robert Williams, Joseph P E Daquette and Kenneth Anderson were making for the Kennedy Lake Logging Company camp in a small skiff powered by an outboard motor The vessel was swamped in Ucluelet Bay. Constable E C. Domay, Provincial Police, is still searching for the other three bodies

Mill Bay Community League Discusses Erection of Hall

MILL BAY, Oct 25—The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Mill Bay Community League, held recently in the Masonic Hall at Mill Bay. President, Major L A Malleson, vice-president, Guy Meuffels; secretary, Mrs. Norman Johnston, treasurer, Ralph Keir; executive committee, N. Tamblyn, Mrs. L. A. Malleson, Gordon Ellis, J. Blyth and David B. Keir. Tribute was paid the retiring officers for their efforts during the past year, and a resume of activities was given.

The matter of erection of a hall was discussed, but even with labor donated, it was felt that sufficient funds were not available to make a start, especially with the prevailing high prices of materials It was considered essential that a building should be erected as soon as possible, and the incoming executive will keep it uppermost on the agenda. The possibility of forming Boy Scout and Girl Guide groups also hinges on the availability of a suitable building.

Complaints of cars speeding along the Island Highway through the settlement had been taken up with Provincial Police, but the trouble was still as bad, and the danger was pointed out with the proximity of children and nurses from Queen Alexandra Solarium crossing the road.

It is hoped that a supervised playground will be organized in the future. Other activities planned for the season will include a musical evening. Mrs W. Jeffrey and Mrs David B. Keir being appointed to look after the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. J Blyth were thanked for their work for the organization since it was formed three years ago.

Dies at Bamfield

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 25—Remains of Charles Holmes, 69, arrived here from Bamfield, accompanied by Constable W Curry of the Provincial Police. Mr. Holmes was found dead near a woodpile at his cabin at Bamfield where he had resided for several years A naturalized British subject, he was born at Helsingfors, Finland. He was found by a nurse at Bamfield who received a report that he had fallen outside his cabin.

Chemainus Court Fines Local Man

CHEMAINUS, Oct. 25—John Wayne King, Victoria, was convicted in Chemainus Police Court on a charge of dangerous driving, and fined $25 and $4.25 costs by Magistrate G. Tisdall. Constable T. Kelly prosecuted.

The charge arose out of defendant's car getting out of control and striking a telephone pole on Swallowfield Road near Chemainus River Bridge. This is the second time within two months that the same pole has been broken. A conviction was obtained six weeks ago against a Vancouver man for a similar offence.

New Fire Area Asks for Help

DUNCAN, Oct. 25—Residents of the Sherman Road district, a mile north of Duncan, held a well-attended meeting to consider the matter of fire protection in that area There are fire hydrants, but no organized fire-fighting facilities

The area affected will be known as the South Sherman Fire District It contains some very fine homes.

The proposed district is within the Municipality of North Cowichan, and the matter will be taken up with the reeve and council. It is believed that a quantity of A.R.P material is available and could be utilized to advantage.

Improve Roads

CAMPBELL RIVER, Oct. 25—Percy S. Allan was appointed road foreman during a meeting of the village commissioners. Roads are being improved and drains completed as rapidly as possible.

THE BATTLE OF THE SEXES
I WAS BETWEEN 2 gals on a coffee shop perch. 'Twas interesting to listen to each prattly wench. Both of whom I happened to know. One was tall and the other didn't grow. "It's a dirty trick," Shorty did bawl, "the styles all favor you gals that are tall. In all the windows you've EVER SEEN the models R all stringy like a bean. You NEVER see a little runty, short ... plump ... and rather dumpy. It JUST ISN'T FAIR," Shortie cried. "We can't help our smaller side. You couldn't hold lovin' this chair as an occasional, it's right in there. With its form-fitting back, cozy spring seat, at just $21 they're hard to beat. In gorgeous colors, suit ANY dame, we personally like the damask of flame. We're delivering these to mansion & shed, & one client took one ... away on his head." "C'mon gal, get back to your story, with too many plugs you're rather bory." OH ... well ... where were we at. Oh yeah ... on that bench we sat. "Esmé," said the tall one among the meals, "how about this business ... of always high heels??? All shoes are styled for a Shortie's calf, but I GOTTA wear 'em, and look like a giraffe. Just because, in silk or lisle, they're MADE for you ... as all the style. And ANOTHER THING," and the stately one, "it's the little squirts who have all the fun. Guys don't go for us skyscraper dames, they much prefer the smaller frames. Which makes me sick, they're so fuddy-duddily, in thinking that we're NOT as cuddly. Well LISTEN MIDGEN, there's a laff, & if I could catch ONE on a gaff, I'd prove to him 'tho I'm 6 ft. high that I can be cuddly ... coy & shy. And even so & DESPITE our height we hide a lot more dynamite than any short ... stubby women alive. So c'mon ... let's get outa this hamburger dive." Shorty laffed, listening awhile. I shrugged, "Humpty's Give Furniture Away With a Smile."

In the Heaney Warehouse ... Walk (walk!) down View ... below Gov't ... Opp. the Courthouse

Thanks for your letter, Mrs. Norman and the kind thing ... don't you think this idea of carrying a white hankie up your sleeve a pretty good stunt??? May I keep your poem? You may keep THIS chesterfield suite ... ALL YOUR LIFE. It's a "Lawson Sofa" and a deep-seated matching chair, tailored in a conventional damask of acco value ... you'll "LOVE A LAWSON" ... that's all for today ... except ...

If there is righteousness in the heart, there will be beauty in the character. If there be beauty in the character, there will be harmony in the home. If there is harmony in the home, there will be order in the nation. When there is order in the nation, there will be peace in the world.
Chinese proverb quoted in Reader's Digest.

THAT'S ALL for today ... see you Monday

40Z MISCELLANEOUS

THANKS, FOLKS!

A boom is ending and only the memory lingers on. Mr. and Mrs. Average Family just haven't got as much money to spend as they had some time ago, and they are looking around now to make what money they have got go as far as possible. In our store we are just ending the biggest month's selling we have ever enjoyed in spite of the fact that folks are not "easy buyers" any more. To us, who have always tried to give our customers all the value for their money we possibly could, this is gratifying. It proves to us that our trade was not built on a bubble that might burst, but a solid foundation of goodwill and confidence.

THE WINNAH

ESQUIMALT HUSBANDS are considered the best, for making their wives happy they top all the rest. But there's a husband out in Gordonhead who's the very best in HIS neighborhood. For the MOST perfect husband we give him the prize and Brother . . . he's "IT" in her swimmy brown eyes. This male marvel decides on her hose, even buys and selects all her clothes. Hats . . . shoes . . . even furniture from us, and he's GOTTA be right, or he kicks up a fuss. But WE had no trouble with this sport, he gave his O.K. on THIS davenport. Because, as he said, and we got it on file, "Humber's sure do 'Give Furniture Away With a Smile.'" The suite he chose and saved so much, we have another, the same as such. He does her shopping, washing as well, and never steps out without his belle. He takes her orange juice in to bed, and kisses her gently on the head. He even gives her all his money, with just small out to buy his honey, a big bunch of flowers for his lady, and keeps "Saying It With Flowers" . . . EVERY FRIDAY

HOW TO GET TO HUMBER BROS FURNITURE??? 18 people were in here today, who said they couldn't find the joint . . . SO . . . do you know where View St. is??? Do you know where Gov't St. is??? Well just walk down View St. towards the drink (across Gov't St.) and you'll spot the Courthouse . . . it's a dark and gloomy thing . . . looks like a castle with ramparts and things, but there's no moat around it . . . but this seems the only reason they call out front, Bastion St. 1U should hear how some strangers pronounce it??? . . . NOW . . . do you think you can find us??? Just keep walking down View St., look for our big red sign which reads HUMBER'S . . . and put front just to help us out Mr. Heaney has a nifty neon sign. Heaney's deliver all our stuff, and they've been CAREFUL SINCE 1896. Your welcome. Bill

KEEP THIS UP YOUR SLEEVE

I'VE OFTEN WONDERED . . . BUT could never believe how a hankie would stay on a sleeve. But a tweedy chap I used to know, kept HIS there when he needed to blow. I always admired the way he could stuff that tremendous thing . . . up his cuff. And there it stayed to fascinate me, that colorful hunk of posh Paisley. This gorgeous chesterfield will fascinate you, and on the cuff . . . we can do. Right to your own home under the nose floral tapestries in blue or rose. I tried it once one Sunday morn, but "to the manner" I wasn't born. But NOW I see we'll ALL have to try if we hope to catch the motorist's eye. And so Victoria . . . a tremendous host, will really be "a little England" on the West Coast.

SED A YOUNG THING

THERE'S A SCHOOL FOR THIS AND A school for that, till you wonder where's your education? So . . . says this young thing. "I wonder why" a kissing school someone doesn't try. And so teach young men who are willing and able, to have some finesse like Taylor or Gable." You'll want to kiss us for bringing to you this chesterfield set at $235. Which is $300 most of the time, but that kinda price . . . doesn't rhyme. So we don't care if we lose some dough, so long as this rhymes reasonably so. "I'm led on," the young thing sed, "my B.F. doesn't know how to use his head." . . . "Well," sed I, "your chances are slim, so why don't you try and teach him? Incidentally what's happened to the old-fashioned girls who fainted when a gentleman kissed her suite?" This young thing replied, her answer quaint, "Just WHERE are those old-fashioned gents WHO MADE US FAINT???"

"TIMES CHANGE"

When you have a toothache, do you go to your dentist or look after it yourself? Selling properties requires a specialized knowledge gained only through experience and constant study of local market conditions. If you are genuinely wanting to sell your home today it must be listed at a price which the buying public is prepared to pay. This is where a reputable firm, acting as your intermediary, can save you time and money. We make no extravagant claims and we are not magicians but respectfully solicit your listing—we will endeavor to satisfy you. Gifts to Chest Far Below Goal

Donations to the Community Chest at the end of the first week of campaigning only amounted to $22,347, a little over 17 per cent of the $130,000 objective.

This sum, however, is expected by Chest officials to be a considerable amount less than actual donations to date because many canvassers have been unable to make returns owing to the lack of transportation.

A concerted effort is required in order to reach the objective by the end of next week, officials said. Additional canvassers are still needed and persons wishing to volunteer should contact Chest headquarters at Prince Robert House or phone B 4200.

Extension Group To Hear Ashton

Dr. H. Ashton, special lecturer in the French Department at the University of British Columbia, will speak on the topic "Dr Renaudot—A Man Born Before His Time" before the Victoria Extension Association at 8.15 p.m., Monday, in Central Junior High School.

Dr. Ashton first joined the U.B.C. faculty in 1915. Five years later he headed the Department of Modern Languages, a post he held until 1933, when he went to Cambridge to lecture in French until 1946.

He is a graduate of Cambridge, where he won his M.A. and Litt. G degrees. Later he obtained a D Litt degree at Birmingham and a D. Litt. degree in Paris.

A fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, Dr. Ashton is also Officer de l'Instruction Publique and a Chevalier of the Legion d'Honneur.

City Police Court

Use of help offered by the family welfare agency of Victoria was suggested by Magistrate Henry C. Hall to a man appearing on a charge involving the Deserted Wives Maintenance Act in city police court yesterday.

The man was given a suspended sentence and ordered to post a $500 bond. Magistrate Hall brought it to his attention that the family welfare agency was in a position to assist in many family troubles such as the accused had related.

Edward Hunt, employee of a coastal passenger steamship line, appeared on a charge of theft of clothes and goods valued at more than $25. He was remanded until Monday, after pleading not guilty. Involved in the theft charge were one man's suit, seven pieces of underwear, a leather case, and one shirt. They were the property of Bert Yeswick, Westholme Hotel, and reportedly stolen the previous night.

Court Reverses Decision On Wood Yard

In a decision handed down Friday on an appeal by the City Health Department, Judge H. H. Shandley, of the County Court, reversed a judgment of Police Court Magistrate Henry C. Hall, and fined Ajaib Singh, Hindu woodyard operator, $50 for infractions of the Public Health By-Law.

The charge was laid in police court by Elwood Gropp, city sanitary inspector, who alleged that the woodyard in question was a source of contamination and disease.

Evidence in both hearings was given by Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, city medical health officer, and Dr. J. L. Gayton, Saanich health officer.

Visit Communities

QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 25. — H. J. Welch, M.L.A., and J. L. Gibson, M.P. for Comox-Alberni, are on a two-week tour of communities along the East Coast. They plan to visit Alert Bay, Port Alice, Minstrel Island, Texada Island, Quadra Island, Reid Island and several other communities.

Films to Show Entire World Beauty of B.C.

British Columbia's scenic beauty and industrial operations will be shown all over the world in a set of 11 new films now being prepared for release by the Government Travel Bureau.

The Technicolor, 16 millimeter films portray nearly every area of the province except the Peace River and northern districts, which are next on the list for the Government photographers.

The films are destined for showings in schools, service clubs and rural areas.

Seven years' work by the bureau's photographic staff is represented in the film library. The series includes films of Vancouver Island, the Cariboo and Okanagan, Fraser Valley, west coast of Vancouver Island, the Inside Passage to Alaska, the Prince George-Prince Rupert district, Kamloops area, and the East and West Kootenays.

In preparation are movies of the mining industry, poultry production, and the growing of certified seed potatoes. A feature-length film on Manning Park will show the scenery of the area, expected to become one of the most popular playgrounds in the province. Photography crews are pushing ahead of construction workers on the Hope-Princeton highway.

May Extend Water Supply

Under a metropolitan water board, the Elk Lake water supply could eventually be developed to serve Brentwood and North Saanich residents, according to Ald. F. N. Cabeldu, chairman of the city water board.

Alderman Cabeldu said the Elk Lake system would be included in the properties taken over by the metropolitan board, and the use of its resources will be limited only by the demands of the R.C.A.F., with whom the city now has a contract.

A 20-year agreement was entered into with the R.C.A.F. in February, 1943. The R.C.A.F. erected its own intakes and pays $1,000 annually for the water. There is no bar on the system being developed to supply the surrounding area provided the air force needs are not curtailed. The air force may terminate the contract at any time on three months' notice, he said.

Little Stories for Bedtime

LONGLEGS, THE BLUE HERON, RECEIVES CALLERS

The trouble with Longlegs was an empty stomach

Longlegs, the Blue Heron, felt decidedly out of sorts. It was a beautiful morning, too beautiful for anyone to be feeling that way. Indeed, it was the same beautiful morning in which Grandfather Frog had caught so many foolish green flies that he had stuffed his white and yellow waistcoat until he couldn't get another one in, and had then gone to sleep right out in plain sight on his big green lily pad in the Smiling pool. It was the very same morning that Little Joe Otter had gone down to the Big River fishing and had had such success that he was fairly bubbling over with good feeling.

Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun was smiling his broadest. The Merry Little Breezes of Old Mother West Wind were dancing happily here and there over the Green Meadows, looking for some good turn to do for others. The little feathered people to whom Old Mother Nature has given the great blessing of music in their throats were pouring out their sweetest songs. So it seemed as if there were no good reason why Longlegs should feel out of sorts. The fact is, the trouble with Longlegs was an empty stomach. You know it is hard work to be hungry and happy at the same time.

So Longlegs stood on the edge of a shallow little pool in the Laughing Brook grumbling to himself. Just a little while before he had seen Little Joe Otter carrying home a big fish and this had made him hungrier and more out of sorts than ever. In the first place, it made him envious, and envy, you know, always stirs up bad feelings. He knew perfectly well that Little Joe had caught that fish by boldly chasing it, for Little Joe can swim faster than a fish. But Longlegs chose to try to make himself think it was all luck. Moreover, he wanted to blame someone for his own lack of success, as most people who fail do. So when Little Joe had called out, "Hi, Longlegs, what luck this fine morning?" Longlegs just pretended not to hear. But when Little Joe was out of sight and hearing he began to grumble to himself.

"No wonder I have no luck with that fellow racing up and down the brook," said he. "He isn't content to catch what he wants himself, but frightens the rest of the fish so that an honest fisherman like me has no chance at all. I don't see what Old Mother Nature was thinking of when she gave him a liking for fish. He and Billy Mink are just two worthless little scamps, born to make trouble for other people."

He was still grumbling when these two same little scamps poked their heads out of the grass on the other side of the little pool. "You look happy, Longlegs. Must be that you have had a good breakfast," said Little Joe, nudging Billy Mink.

Longlegs snapped his great bill angrily. "What are you doing here spoiling my fish?" he demanded. "Haven't you got the Big River and all the rest of the Laughing Brook to fool around in? This is my pool and I'll thank you to keep away!"

Billy Mink chuckled so that Longlegs heard him and that didn't improve his temper a bit. But before he could say anything more Little Joe Otter spoke.

"Oh," said he, "we beg your pardon. Billy Mink just happened to see Grandfather Frog sound asleep and we thought that if you hadn't had good luck this morning you might like to know about it. But as long as you think so ill of us we'll just run over and tell Blackcap the Night Heron."

Little Joe turned as if to start off in search of Blackcap at once. "Hold on a minute," called Longlegs, and tried to make his voice sound pleasant, a very difficult thing to do because, you know, his voice is very harsh and disagreeable. "The truth is I haven't had a mouthful of breakfast and to be hungry is apt to make me cross. Where did you say Grandfather Frog is?"

"I didn't say," replied Joe, "but if you really want to know he is sitting on his big, green lily pad in the Smiling Pool, fast asleep right in plain sight."

"Thank you," said Longlegs. "I believe I have an errand up that way now I think of it. I believe I'll just go over and have a look at him. I have never seen him asleep."

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

According to Culbertson

(Copyright, 1947, by Ely Culbertson)

The safety play available in today's deal is of a type that is apt to escape the attention of average players.

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable

NORTH
♥ A 10 7 3
♦ Q 9 5

WEST
♠ Q J 10 8
♥ 8 6 4

EAST
♥ Q J 9
♦ 8 2

SOUTH
♠ K 2
♥ K 5 2
♦ A K J 10 7 4
♣ K 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

Three no trump, especially played by the South hand, would be a safer contract, but the bidding is recorded as it actually took place, and it was up to South to bring home 11 tricks.

West opened the spade queen, which declarer won with the king. Two rounds drew the opponents' trumps, and South then cashed the king and ace of hearts and played a third round, hoping that the suit would break and that it would be West who won the third round, since that player could not make a dangerous attack in the club suit. Unfortunately, however, East got in on the third heart lead, and his prompt shift to clubs defeated the contract.

South did not fully exploit the safety possibilities in this deal. The line of play that may have an excellent outcome (will have if the hearts break 3-3) and which cannot lose in any case, is as follows:

After drawing trumps, South cashes the spade ace and returns the spade nine. West's opening lead strongly indicated Q-J-10 to begin with, and when East does not cover the spade nine, declarer should be delighted to discard a heart from his own hand, thereby surely giving the spade trick to West instead of risking the loss of a heart trick to East.

After winning the spade trick, West cannot make a better return than a heart. South wins with the king, leads to the heart ace, and then ruffs a heart. The 3-3 break in the suit establishes dummy's fourth heart, so now declarer merely has to go to dummy with a diamond and discard one of his clubs. Observe that if the hearts do not break 3-3, declarer can still fall back on the chance that the club ace lies right.

Chemainus Names Teen Town Heads

CHEMAINUS, Oct. 25.—Teen Town election of officers resulted in Miss Joyce McInness being named mayoress; Diane Saunders, deputy mayoress, and Ray Ordano, Earle Patterson, Alvin Wilson, Joan Saunders, Connie McGahety and Joyce McNichol, aldermen. Ex-mayoress Betty Erickson is attending a meeting at Victoria to arrange an agenda for the Island convention to be held there on November 7 and 8.

A successful masquerade dance started the season with practically all guests in costume. Door and elimination prizes were given. Badminton and bowling under Teen Town will start as soon as the new hall is completed. A "Sadie Hawkins" dance is planned for November 18.

The committee is endeavoring to procure crests and sweaters. With Miss Eleanor Brown as convener, Teen Town is planning a baby sitting corporation, and a list of those willing to "sit," and possible clients, is being prepared. A uniform hourly charge before and also for after midnight will be made, and it is hoped to operate along the lines of a purses' registry.

Constable Helps Courtenay Board

COURTENAY, Oct. 25.—The sum of $296, net proceeds of a Labor Day baseball tournament, has been turned over to the Courtenay Parks Board by Constable Edmund Corson, Provincial Police, who staged the tourney. Total receipts for the two-day affair were $1,287. Prizes offered totaled $500, and general expenses were $491.

The parks board now has $546 for use in improving the park.

When Kidneys Work Too Often

Are you embarrassed and inconvenienced by too frequent elimination during the day or night? This symptom as well as Smarting Passages, Backache, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains and Swollen Ankles may be due to Kidney and Bladder troubles. Trial Offer: To prove what Cystex may do to bring you joyous help from the pains and distress of Kidney and Bladder troubles, get Cystex from your druggist and give it a fair trial with the positive understanding that if you are not satisfied for any reason, you get your money back on return of empty package. So don't suffer another day without trying Cystex.

Cash for Oars

COURTENAY, Oct. 25.—Chester Haas, Courtenay, is wishing he had gone a little higher when he told friends about town that the oars somebody filched from his rowboat two months ago were worth $7.

In the mail this week Mr. Haas received $7 in cash. A note which accompanied the money read: "I'm sorry I can't return the oars to you, but here's $7 to cover their cost." Real value of the oars was $15.

Sea Cadets Training Program Equips Boys for Adult Years

The Navy League of Canada is now operating ten camps for Sea Cadets where they can learn the art of seamanship and the responsibilities of leadership.

The work of the Navy League touches the lives of many thousands of growing boys, and those who complete the training syllabus are better equipped for the business world.

Though the Sea Cadet training program lays strong emphasis on aquatic and other sports, strict discipline and control is taught every cadet. He has certain duties to perform and must spend definite hours at studies.

Parents and friends who have visited a Sea Cadet barracks have probably been surprised to find the boys have other reponsibilities than that of having a good time.

Civic authorities and employment managers are discovering the lads who complete the Navy League training program are deserving of preference over those who have not had the benefit of it.

The whole Sea Cadet program is gaining in popularity. The greater it grows, however, the greater become the financial commitments which the league must undertake.

It is in order that this movement may grow and prosper that public financial and moral support is necessary.

Though Navy Week is not officially observed in the West, it is asked the citizens of Victoria consider any means by which they could assist the Navy League of Canada in keeping up its fine work.

CHINESE LIKE RED

Urge Better Deal

SALTAIR, Oct. 25.—J. Reed, R. Chamberlain and T. Stratton were appointed school representatives during a meeting of property owners in Saltair School. Dissatisfaction was expressed with the fact that the three local representatives of Ladysmith School District No. 67 could only act through a regular trustee. It was decided to ask the Provincial Department of Education to grant additional representation.
